Isolationists To Move For Public Hearings Before Two Committees

Information Concerning End Of War Secretary's Term To Be Sought

WASHINGTON, July 1—The bitter fight over President Roosevelt's aid-to-the-Allies program centered today in senate opposition to approval of cabinet appointees Col. Frank Knox and Henry L. Stimson as congress reconvened under threat of an extended session.

Senate isolationists joined forces to block confirmation of Knox as secretary of navy and Stimson as secretary of war, and they intensified their drive to keep congress in session during the European emergency.

Assailing the appointment of the two Republicans as an attempt to create a "war cabinet," the isolationists served notice that they will demand public hearings when the senate naval and military affairs committees begin consideration of the nominations tomorrow.

The committee chairmen have agreed to summon the nominees for questioning regarding defense and foreign policies.

A demand will also be made on the military affairs committee to call former Secretary of War Woodring for questioning. Sen. Johnson (D. Colo.), a member of the military committee, insists on "a public hearing" for Woodring to determine whether he was removed by President Roosevelt because he refused to turn over valuable defense weapons and materials to the Allies.

THREE GO TO JAIL AFTER DEFYING CHIEF'S WARNING

Following Police Chief William McCrady's warning last week that anyone caught shooting firecrackers within the city limits would be prosecuted, Circleville police arrested three youths for the offense Saturday night.

The youths, Ernest Nungster, 19, of Ashville, Lloyd Nungster, 20, East Union Street and Thomas Booth, 16, Route 2 Circleville, spent Saturday night in the city jail.

Lloyd and Ernest Nungster were released Sunday after they posted $5 bonds and Booth after he agreed to make a similar payment.

ITALIANS READY TO RAID EGYPT

Radio In Rome Hints Time Ripe; Planes Of All Nations Active

LONDON, July 1—An Italian attack against Egypt was anticipated today after the Rome radio, according to Reuters (British) news agency, announced: "The Italian high command considers the time ripe for an attack on British forces which so far have been protected by the neutrality of Egypt."

Britain has military bases at various points in Egypt under terms of the Anglo-Egyptian alliance.

LONDON, July 1—A fierce sky battle in which British Hurricane fighters shot down five German Messerschmitts and probably destroyed an additional seven out of a formation of seventeen Nazi planes was reported today by the British air ministry. An official announcement stated: "Five German Messerschmitts (Continued on Page Two)"

U. S. FLEET BACK AT HAWAII AFTER SECRET JOURNEY

HONOLULU, July 1—With the same unexpectedness that shrouded its departure a week ago, the United States fleet returned to Hawaiian waters today.

The secret sailing of the great armada was explained by Admiral James O. Richardson, commander-in-chief, as routine training work simulating emergency sailing without previous notification.

Various rumors had been rife in Honolulu regarding whereabouts of the fighting craft, including one report that the ships were speeding toward the Panama Canal to take up stations in the Atlantic and another that they had gone toward the Philippines and other Asiatic points.

The first contingent of 40 ships, which included submarines, a plane carrier, destroyers, cruisers and battleships, dropped anchor Sunday in Lahaina Roads, the navy's anchorage off the island of Maui which is about 200 miles from the island of Oahu, the seat of Honolulu and the great Pearl Harbor naval base.

Additional vessels of the fleet arrived throughout the day and night.

It was generally believed that the fleet would refuel at Lahaina Roads and then resume stations later, although there was no official confirmation.

NATIONS ASKED TO END MISSIONS IN NAZI LANDS

BERLIN, July 1—Germany today requested foreign nations to close their diplomatic missions in Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg by July 15. All diplomatic embassies and ministries in Berlin received a circular note from the German foreign office containing the request.

Consular offices will continue to function in the four countries which are now under German control. Diplomatic affairs, however, will be handled through the missions in Berlin.

THE German claims on the French luxury liner Normandie, now docked in New York City, may be temporarily thwarted under a proclamation issued by President Roosevelt which decrees the U. S. may seize any foreign vessel in U. S. waters "if it is a possible danger to U. S. defenses." It is reported privately that U. S. officials are not disposed to let the Normandie fall into German hands.

Defenses In Industrial East May Be Improved

WASHINGTON, July 1—Branding as inadequate the coast defenses of New York, Boston and other North Atlantic coast industrial centers, a house military affairs sub-committee today planned to recommend immediate strengthening of forts.

Investigation of coast guard defenses from New York to Maine, was made by Reps. Faddis (D. Pa.), Smith (D. Conn.), and Byrns (D. Tenn.), acting as an investigating sub-committee.

"We need more guns and more men in the coast guard to properly man the shore defenses," said Faddis. "We will make recommendations for remedying the situation."

"A program of modernization of guns, additional guns and camouflage of defenses is needed. The guns are too much exposed. We hope that the military mind will adapt itself to new conditions and work out a program of camouflage defenses."

The group visited coast guard defense posts at New York, Sandy Hook, Boston, Connecticut and Rhode Island Points, Portsmouth, N. H., and along the Maine coast. Although division of authority between army and navy has been criticized by some retired army officers, the sub-committee apparently will make no recommendation on this point. It is necessary for both army and navy to have some jurisdiction in defending harbors, Faddis said.

F. D.'S DECISION ON PRESIDENCY '15 DAYS AWAY'

WASHINGTON, July 1—Paraphrasing an old American shopping slogan, President Roosevelt today was "only 15 days until" he must declare whether he will run for a third term.

Mr. Roosevelt faces his fateful decision with his foreign policy on trial, his latest cabinet appointments opposed, and with threats of a third party growing.

Fifteen short days from now the Democratic national convention will assemble at Chicago and probably nominate Mr. Roosevelt for a third term—if he wants it—on the first ballot.

The President plans to go to Hyde Park, N. Y., for the coming Fourth of July week end. The White House already has revealed that there will be a "good story" developing from his visit there. It may be the long-awaited third-term announcement.

However, persons close to the New Deal do not expect Mr. Roosevelt to speak out on the third term this week end. And so the convention will be only nine days off with the President's intentions as much of a mystery as when the "palace guard" of the New Deal launched the third-term boom a year ago.

VICHY TO BE CENTER FOR GOVERNMENT OF PETAIN

NEW YORK, July 1—The French Government headed by Marshal Henri Philippe Petain has arrived at Clermont-Ferrand and will move to Vichy, according to an official British radio broadcast picked up in New York today by the Columbia Broadcasting system.

WHEELER WARNS OF NECESSARY OF ANTI-WAR STAND

CHICAGO, July 1—Creation of "a new and great anti-war party" was foreseen today by Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D) of Montana, in the event the Democratic party fails to adopt a strong peace plank at its national convention in Chicago later this month.

Senator Wheeler, speaking at a "Keep America Out of War" mass meeting in Chicago last night, charged that the Republican party "calmly and carefully refused to pledge itself that no drop of blood of an American youth shall be spilled on a foreign shore for the purpose of interfering in any European or Asiatic conflict."

Declaring that the "war makers have captured one party, and are working feverishly on the other," the Montanan promised: "If neither party is willing to give this pledge to the American people, then a new and great anti-war party will arise to challenge both the old parties."

Wheeler has been mentioned prominently as a qualified liberal leader to head a third-party movement. Another isolationist senator, Edwin Johnson (D) of Colorado, and others, have suggested this.

Announcing his unequivocal opposition to the nominations of Colonels Henry Stimson and Frank Knox to the cabinet as secretaries of war and navy, respectively, Wheeler branded both as "publicly avowed proponents of (Continued on Page Two)"

FRANKLIN GRAND JURY TO STUDY TAX STAMP CASE

COLUMBUS, July 1—The attorney general's office will submit to the Franklin County grand jury tomorrow evidence in an alleged attempt by state employees to defraud the state in the redemption of cancelled sales tax stamps, it was announced today.

Redeemed stamps are supposed to be burned at the state penitentiary. The attorney general, acting under the Culp law permitting intervention in attempts to defraud the state, has been investigating charges that the same stamps have been "redeemed" a second time.

The attorney general would not say how many employees were involved.

Berlin Says Lower Classes Ready To Rise

BERLIN, July 1—Nazi Germany's inevitable "blitz" attack on the British Isles came a step closer today with occupation of the channel islands of Guernsey and Jersey by powerful units of the Nazi air force. A brief official announcement over the Berlin radio disclosed seizure of the first British territory yet taken since the war began last September.

BERLIN, July 1—Total "blitz" war in all its hitherto-unknown fury will strike at England in the near future, official German quarters asserted today.

The offensive will be designed to destroy England in record time, it was said, with revenge for allegedly deliberate British attacks on open German cities comprising an important factor.

There is a strong possibility, these quarters said, that a British revolt against the upper classes may develop immediately after the first gun is fired.

Every newest weapon and every most modern plane and bomb will be hurled into the fray, German spokesmen asserted. In contrast to the war in France and Belgium, where fighting was confined to military factors, the conflict in England will mirror German resentment over civilian casualties inflicted here by the Royal Air Force, it was said.

BERLIN, MOSCOW RIFT DENIED BY GERMAN CIRCLES

BERLIN, July 1—The German Government today officially denounced press reports alleging friction between Berlin and Moscow arising from Soviet occupation of Bessarabia and northern Bukovina.

A spokesman took issue with reports cabled to the United States from Bucharest along this line. "These dispatches," he said, "show an American tendency to create an artificial impression that Germany, after securing a free hand on the European continent, means to attack Russia."

"We dispute America's right to speculate over Germany and German intentions in Europe, particularly in view of the fact that Americans do not understand European affairs anyhow."

Rain Sunday afternoon failed to dampen the spirits of 500 persons who attended the Improved Order of Red Men's convention at Gold Cliff Park. The rain began as Fred Clark, Circleville, finished his welcoming address opening the afternoon ceremonies, but the program was not interrupted.

Highlights of the program included Indian songs and dances in the original Indian custom, a ritualistic service "Adoption of Palefaces," and a fireworks display. Members of the Circleville and Chillicothe tribes were in charge of the program.

GOELLER BABY FIRST OF MONTH IN CIRCLEVILLE

A seven-pound daughter born at 5:30 a. m. Monday in Berger Hospital to Dr. and Mrs. Joe E. Goeller, 434 East Franklin Street, is Circleville's first baby of July. The little girl is their second. Dr. E. S. Shane was the attending physician.

The little girl and her parents will receive the following awards from Circleville merchants:

$1 savings account at the Circleville Savings and Banking Co.

Carton of six 60-watt lamps from the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

Floral tribute from Brehmer's Greenhouses.

A month's pass to the Cliftona Theatre.

A quart of milk free for two weeks from the Blue Ribbon Dairy.

A frame for the baby's first picture by the Circleville Paint Co.

A three month subscription to The Daily Herald.

And lastly, five gallons of gasoline from the proud father's own brother, William Goeller, who operates his service station at Court and Logan Streets.

OVEN EXPLOSION INJURES MANY IN MICHIGAN CITY

MUSKOGON, Mich., July 1—Twenty-four persons were injured today at the Lakey Foundry when a gas filled core oven exploded and wrecked a block long core room.

Eleven of those injured required hospital treatment and four were in serious condition.

The blast shattered windows within a three block radius. Damage was estimated at approximately $50,000.

BUDAPEST, July 1—A bloody "Communist rebellion" in which hundreds of Reds were shot by troops at Galatz in Romania was reported in dispatches to Budapest today. (EDITOR'S NOTE: Official German reports to Berlin estimated that at least 500 Jews were shot and killed by Romanian police at Galatz following pro-Soviet demonstrations.)

Thousands of Communists, waving red flags, marched through the Moldavian city, situated not far from the border of Bessarabia, which is now being occupied by Soviet Russian troops.

Romanian soldiers fired repeated volleys at the Communists, killing hundreds. Their bodies "covered the pavements," according to reports received here.

At nearby Reni a similar "rebellion" was reported to have preceded the Russian occupation of the town.

200 Casualties Listed

The Romanian radio announced that casualties in the Galatz rioting amounted to 200, but did not give a proportion of dead and wounded.

It was understood that the riot began when a group of Jews attempted to board a train headed for the Russian-occupied part of Bessarabia.

Troops interfered, it was understood, and claimed the train was needed for military purposes.

Romanian authorities arrested the rebels and rushed them to Galatz, pursued by Soviet troops, according to the advices.

'Stampede' Reported

At Ismail, Russian parachute troops swooped down to find Romanian troops still holding the town. But the Romanians were reported to have "stampeded" after a short fight.

Ten thousand Romanian Jews crossed the River Pruth and now are trekking into the Soviet Union. One hundred and sixty thousand Germans in the northern Bukovina region, ceded to Russia by Romania, will be transferred to the Reich.

Russian and Romanian quarters in Budapest, meanwhile, categorically denied reports of Russo-Romanian fighting in the occupied territory.

Persistent rumors were heard in Bucharest that Moscow has lodged with Turkey a demand for participation in defense of the Dardanelles, vital link between the Black and Mediterranean Seas.

Russian and Romanian soldiers clashed in a series of sharp engagements along the Pruth River. Suffering and death overtook thousands of refugees fleeing from the territories which Romania ceded to the Soviet Union under the goad of an ultimatum.

Authorities took strict steps to preserve order in the tense situation.

$16 WEEKLY FOR BEAUTY OPERATORS NEAR IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, July 1—Recommendations establishing a minimum wage of $16 per week for Ohio's 25,000 beauty shop workers were accepted tentatively today by Industrial Relations Director George Strain.

No date has been set for a public hearing on the recommendations, which were submitted by the Ohio minimum wage board. If the scale is approved finally by Strain following the hearing, the regulations will go into effect within 90 days from that date.

The $16 minimum is for cosmetologists. The scale for other beauty shop employees under the proposal would be $14 per week.

STEEL INDUSTRY BOOMS IN OHIO

Production Nears Capacity; Chesapeake-Ohio And N. & W. Buy Rails

CLEVELAND, July 1—Steel mill production, without the impetus of orders for the national defense program, has reached close to capacity, the magazine Steel said today.

With delivery dates being advanced under the accumulation of mill backlogs, the magazine reported that Great Britain has assumed all French contracts for war materials without any major changes. Other export tonnage is appearing in the American market following drying up of the usual European sources of supply.

Unusual activity in railroad buying was reported by Steel with cars, locomotives and rails being booked in high volume. Large orders placed included 46,000 tons of rails by the Chesapeake and Ohio; Norfolk & Western plans to buy 25,000 tons and a Brazilian railway company is expected to place a 22,500-ton order inquiry with Inland Steel.

Automobile production showed the usual seasonal drop with 87,550 units against 90,060 the previous week, Steel declared.

BRICKER, EVATT HEAR COLUMBUS' STORY OF FUNDS

COLUMBUS, July 1—Mayor Floyd Green conferred today with Governor Bricker, and later with Tax Commissioner W. S. Evatt, on the critical financial plight of the city of Columbus. Meantime, it was feared lack of funds may force suspension of garbage collection.

The mayor said he would seek suggestions from the governor and inquire whether there was any way the state might come to the rescue of the capital city, which a few weeks ago rejected a proposed tax increase for operating revenue.

OHIO MAYOR FIRES TWO

NEWARK, July 1—Mayor Glen Wright, of Newark, today announced the ouster of Police Chief Gall Christman and Detective Chief Clyde Hupp following a dispute over working orders. According to the mayor, Christman refused to carry out assignment of patrolman which would have required the police chief to work on the night shift. The police and detective chief contended the mayor had no right to assign patrolmen.

$16 WEEKLY FOR BEAUTY OPERATORS NEAR IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, July 1—Recommendations establishing a minimum wage of $16 per week for Ohio's 25,000 beauty shop workers were accepted tentatively today by Industrial Relations Director George Strain.

No date has been set for a public hearing on the recommendations, which were submitted by the Ohio minimum wage board. If the scale is approved finally by Strain following the hearing, the regulations will go into effect within 90 days from that date.

The $16 minimum is for cosmetologists. The scale for other beauty shop employees under the proposal would be $14 per week.

OHIO MAYOR FIRES TWO
NEWARK, July 1—Mayor Glen Wright, of Newark, today announced the ouster of Police Chief Gall Christman and Detective Chief Clyde Hupp following a dispute over working orders. According to the mayor, Christman refused to carry out assignment of patrolmen which would have required the police chief to work on the night shift. The police and detective chief contended the mayor had no right to assign patrolmen.

STEEL INDUSTRY BOOMS IN OHIO

Production Nears Capacity;
Chesapeake, Ohio And
N. & W. Buy Rails

CLEVELAND, July 1—Steel mill production, without the impetus of orders for the national defense program, has reached close to capacity, the magazine Steel said today.

With delivery dates being advanced under the accumulation of mill backlogs, the magazine reported that Great Britain has assumed all French contracts for war materials without any major changes. Other export tonnage is appearing in the American market following drying up of the usual European sources of supply.

Unusual activity in railroad buying was reported by Steel with cars, locomotives and rails being booked in high volume. Large orders placed included 46,000 tons of rails by the Chesapeake and Ohio; Norfolk & Western plans to buy 25,000 tons and a Brazilian company is expected to place a 22,500-ton order inquiry with Inland Steel.

Automobile production showed the usual seasonal drop with 57,550 units against 90,060 the previous week, Steel declared.

BRICKER, EVATT HEAR COLUMBUS' STORY OF FUNDS

COLUMBUS, July 1—Mayor Floyd Green conferred today with Governor Bricker, and later with Tax Commissioner W. S. Evatt, on the critical financial plight of the city of Columbus. Meantime, it was feared lack of funds may force suspension of garbage collection.

The mayor said he would seek suggestions from the governor and inquire whether there was any way the state might come to the rescue of the capital city, which a few weeks ago rejected a proposed tax increase for operating revenue.

OHIO MAYOR FIRES TWO

NEWARK, July 1—Mayor Glen Wright, of Newark, today announced the ouster of Police Chief Gall Christman and Detective Chief Clyde Hupp following a dispute over working orders. According to the mayor, Christman refused to carry out assignment of patrolmen which would have required the police chief to work on the night shift. The police and detective chief contended the mayor had no right to assign patrolmen.

Isolationists To Move For Public Hearings Before Two Committees

McNary said that he will insist that congress remain in session to deal with emergencies arising from the European war, and to take up legislation vital to domestic problems. He predicted, however, that congress could "safely" leave Washington by September 1.

While Barkley and other administration leaders would like to finish with remaining defense legislation and adjourn before the Democratic national convention begins on July 15, they admitted that there is little likelihood of this. This week, Barkley said, will be consumed by a series of recesses over the Fourth of July holiday, while committees finish work on important last-minute legislation.

Many Bills Pending

In addition to the new $4,000,000 naval expansion bill awaiting senate action, demands are being made for consideration of a long list of controversial measures. The list includes extension of the "clean politics" law to many state employees; modification of the National Labor Relations Act, and passage of the Walter-Logan bill to give federal courts additional jurisdiction over the rulings of quasi-judicial government agencies.

Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., leading the senate isolationist bloc, predicts that "congress will remain in session a long time when the people are acquainted with the President's foreign policy." He said that in addition to the fight over confirmation on the "Interventionists Knox and Stimson," hot and heavy debate over the President's foreign policy will follow any legislation designed to carry out his "national youth training" program.

American intervention." The senator said he welcomed formation of a coalition cabinet in time of emergency, without regard to party, but added:

"If we are to have a coalition, let it be one of peace makers, not war makers."

Accusing the Republican party of having "dodged the issue" of war, and of having adopted loose, vague platform pledges on the intervention issue—"the greatest issue facing our country today"—Wheeler criticized the G. O. P.'s nomination of Wendell Willkie for the presidency. Willkie he described as "an acknowledge Wall Street lawyer and one who openly espoused the policy of American intervention in Europe's blood baths—until a few weeks—if not days—ago."

EIGHT OHIO EXECUTIVES COLLECT $75,000 SALARIES

WASHINGTON, July 1—Eight Ohio executives received remuneration in excess of $75,000 last year, according to figures released today by the treasury department.

Frank C. Adams, of the Andrew Jergens Company, Cincinnati, received a salary of $50,000 and bonus of $168,995.77 for a total of $173,995.77 to lead the list.

Other high Ohio earners included: Andrew Jergens, The Andrew Jergens Company, $156,248.39; Adrian D. Joyce, The Glidden Company, Cleveland, $98,040.00; Edward A. Deeds, the National Cash Register Co., Dayton, 100,000.

W. T. Holliday, The Standard Oil Company of Ohio, Cleveland, $81,000; Joseph S. Stern, A. E. Cohen, A. Sallinger, all of the United States Shoe Corporation, Cincinnati, $103,335.60 each.

For that reason, well-informed quarters said, it should not be surprising if after the large-scale attack on England begins Germany announces she can no longer recognize open towns designated as such by British authorities.

German spokesmen said they were unable to comprehend why Britain should risk mass retaliation. Poor marksmanship, inaccurate maps and insufficient training were variously blamed for the British attacks, but it was stated that attacks such as one on a residential street in Munster have inflamed the German public "and are bound to precipitate a rain of bombs on England such as was never dreamed possible."

The outcry of "Gott strafe England" has been fanned into a realistic public demand for early vengeance, it was said.

MORE

GARFIELD GUEST

Bing Crosby will celebrate the new time of his Music Hall on Thursday by presenting such notables of the stage and screen as John Garfield and Geraldine Fitzgerald along with songwriter Johnny Mercer. The hour of variety will now be heard each Thursday at 8 p. m.

One of Bing's oldest friends is Johnny Mercer who has turned out many of the tunes featured in the crooner's motion pictures. He'll introduce a new one called, "The Meadow Lark," in a duet with Crosby.

John Garfield has just returned to Hollywood after appearing on Broadway in "Heavenly Express." He will resume his cinematic career shortly. Garfield and Miss Fitzgerald will take on Crosby in separate verbal encounters.

The Music Mails and John Scott Trotter's orchestra complete the talent list for the broadcast.

"TO THE LADIES"

The final Radio Theatre presentation of the current season will take place Monday, when Helen Hayes and Otto Kruger are starred in "To the Ladies" which they did with great success on the New York stage. Cecil B. DeMille winds up his most successful season as producer of the full-hour dramatic program that broadcast over the Columbia network at 8 p. m.

"To the Ladies" is a George S. Kaufman-Marc Connelly collaboration which ran on Broadway for 128 performances. The comedy concerns the efforts of Elsie Beebe played by Helen Hayes to better the status of her husband, Leonard, with his boss.

RADIO BRIEFS

Ezra Stone will do an extra matinee weekly in his summer theatre appearances so that he can skip Thursday night for broadcasts of "The Aldrich Family."

Don Ameche's plotting a "Young Fred Allen" sketch to even things for the Yankee comic's "Young Don Ameche" burlesque.

Chicago bandleaders have challenged Horace Heidt to a "Pot O' Gold" golf match—they'll chip in on a pot, winner take all, when Heidt plays at Edgewater Beach next month.

Kay Kyser is proudly displaying token of esteem from San Antonio Boys' club—it's a little glass egg—which means Kyser's a good egg!

Jack Smart plans to continue in "Mr. District Attorney" roles even after his own starrer, "Eustace Meek," gets under way.

Harry von Zell, on three weeks' vacation, returns Tuesday for "We, the People," "The Aldrich Family" and "Abbott and Costello."

Arlene Francis, frequently featured in "Mr. District Attorney," joins June Walker in the CBS "Short Short Story" Wednesday.

TRUCKER FINED $25 FOR USING HOOSIER PLATES

Orrie Dale Bender, a Mansfield trucker, was arrested by State Highway Patrolman H. O. McAdams on Route 23 near Gold Cliff Park Sunday night for having Indiana licenses on his truck when he was a resident of Ohio.

He was brought to Circleville and tried in Justice of Peace B. T. Hedges' court and released after he had paid his $25 fine. He was warned not to drive his truck until he had purchased Ohio licenses. By getting his licenses in Indiana, Bender was able to get them much cheaper, Justice Hedges pointed out.

Bender was on his way to Cleveland with a load of general merchandise when he was picked up.

Authorities said bombs were dropped on eastern and western England, Wales and eastern Scotland. One town in eastern Scotland was attacked with incendiary bombs, it was announced, and a school was destroyed and one person slightly injured.

GARFIELD GUEST

Bing Crosby will celebrate the new time of his Music Hall on Thursday by presenting such notables of the stage and screen as John Garfield and Geraldine Fitzgerald along with songwriter Johnny Mercer. The hour of variety will now be heard each Thursday at 8 p. m.

One of Bing's oldest friends is Johnny Mercer who has turned out many of the tunes featured in the crooner's motion pictures. He'll introduce a new one called, "The Meadow Lark," in a duet with Crosby.

to Hollywood after appearing on Broadway in "Heavenly Express." He will resume his cinematic career shortly. Garfield and Miss Fitzgerald will take on Crosby in separate verbal encounters.

The Music Mails and John Scott Trotter's orchestra complete the talent list for the broadcast.

"TO THE LADIES"

The final Radio Theatre presentation of the current season will take place Monday, when Helen Hayes and Otto Kruger are starred in "To the Ladies" which they did with great success on the New York stage. Cecil B. DeMille winds up his most successful season as producer of the full-hour dramatic program that broadcast over the Columbia network at 8 p. m.

"To the Ladies" is a George S. Kaufman-Marc Connelly collaboration which ran on Broadway for 128 performances. The comedy concerns the efforts of Elsie Beebe played by Helen Hayes to better the status of her husband, Leonard, with his boss.

RADIO BRIEFS

Ezra Stone will do an extra matinee weekly in his summer theatre appearances so that he can skip Thursday night for broadcasts of "The Aldrich Family."

Don Ameche's plotting a "Young Fred Allen" sketch to even things for the Yankee comic's "Young Don Ameche" burlesque.

Chicago bandleaders have challenged Horace Heidt to a "Pot O' Gold" golf match—they'll chip in on a pot, winner take all, when Heidt plays at Edgewater Beach next month.

Kay Kyser is proudly displaying token of esteem from San Antonio Boys' club—it's a little glass egg—which means Kyser's a good egg!

Jack Smart plans to continue in "Mr. District Attorney" roles even after his own starrer, "Dustace Meek," gets under way.

Harry von Zell, on three weeks' vacation, returns Tuesday for "We, the People," "The Aldrich Family" and "Abbott and Costello."

Arlene Francis, frequently featured in "Mr. District Attorney," joins June Walker in the CBS "Short Short Story" Wednesday.

TRUCKER FINED $25 FOR USING HOOSIER PLATES

Orrie Dale Bender, a Mansfield trucker, was arrested by State Highway Patrolman H. O. McAdams on Route 23 near Gold Cliff Park Sunday night for having Indiana licenses on his truck when he was a resident of Ohio.

He was brought to Circleville and tried in Justice of Peace E. T. Hedges' court and released after he had paid his $25 fine. He was warned not to drive his truck until he had purchased Ohio licenses. By getting his licenses in Indiana, Bender was able to get them much cheaper, Justice Hedges pointed out.

Bender was on his way to Cleveland with a load of general merchandise when he was picked up.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn Reports No Quarantines Up As July Starts

FEW AILMENTS LISTED

Inspection, Examination Of Pickaway Children For School Planned

Pickaway County is much more free from communicable disease than most other counties of the state, a monthly report released Monday by Health Commissioner Dr. A. D. Blackburn pointed out. During the first six months of 1940, there were only five cases of scarlet fever, four cases of diphtheria, one of typhoid fever and no cases of smallpox or infantile paralysis.

From the schools of the county, during the six month period, 18 children were absent from school because of whooping cough, two because of measles, 29 mumps and 25 chickenpox. Absence from school because of sickness was considerably below the normal figures, Dr. Blackburn stated.

At the present time there is no one in the county under quarantine, two quarantines for scarlet fever and one for diphtheria being removed in June.

As part of the county's tuberculosis control program, six skin tests were made during June, five of which were negative and one positive.

Examination Dates Set

Plans have been made and dates set for inspections and examinations of school children in the county. All first grade pupils will be given physical examinations and all pupils enrolled in the county schools who have not been vaccinated or immunized for diphtheria by their family physician, or who have not previously received their prophylactic treatments at school will be given them at the request of their parents.

Plans are being made for a tuberculin testing program in county high schools, with assistance from the State Health Department.

On November 18, 19, and 20 an educational health film will be shown in all the high schools and on December 2, 4, and 6, skin tests will be given at parents' requests.

Those showing positive reactions will be X-rayed and examined at the chest clinic in January. Funds for the program will be furnished by the sale of Christmas seals.

During June, Health Nurse Margaret Hunsicker made 120 visits to homes in the county and reported 46 birth certificates delivered.

Party Trouble In N. Y. One Of Willkie's Woes

NEW YORK, July 1—Refreshed after a week end of cruising on Publisher Roy W. Howard's yacht Jamaroy, Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican nominee for president, returns to New York today to lay the groundwork for a fighting election campaign.

One of Willkie's first acts after the yacht docks some time this morning in New York's East River will be to submit his resignation as President of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation. A press conference at his office at 20 Pine Street in the financial section also was scheduled.

Two urgent problems faced Willkie as he returned from his arduous week of work at the Republican national convention at Philadelphia. One was the necessity of restoring harmony to the badly rent New York state committee. The other was the question of naming a national chairman.

Bad feeling still exists among New York committee members over the ousting of Kenneth F. Simpson as national committee man because of his opposition to the presidential candidacy of Thomas E. Dewey. Simpson issued a statement predicting victory for Willkie along with substantial G.O.P. gains in congress in the election.

Willkie was scheduled to meet with the national advisory committee on the question of the national chairman on Wednesday. Many political observers felt John D. H. Hamilton would continue in the post.

On the Jamaroy with Willkie, Mrs. Willkie and their son, Phillip, were Mr. and Mrs. Howard and Russell W. Davenport who resigned as managing editor of a magazine to co-ordinate the various drives for Willkie before the convention took place.

The Jamaroy, after leaving Philadelphia Saturday, anchored in the harbor of Cape May, N. J., Saturday night. Local New Jersey Republican political leaders who boarded the yacht to greet Willkie reported he appeared almost thoroughly recovered from the stress of his grueling week of activity at Philadelphia. The Jamaroy put out again Sunday morning and passed quarantine enroute to New York harbor at 8:40 last night. A heavy rain squall slowed her up after passing Sandy Hook.

It was believed that Willkie will embark on a vacation after several days of conferences with G.O.P. leaders in New York. His speech of acceptance of the nomination from the steps of the high school in Ellwood, Ind., his boyhood home, will probably be deferred until after this vacation, it was said.

17 RAINY DAYS LISTED IN JUNE IN COUNTY AREA

Circleville had rain 17 days in June, Miss Abbe Mills Clarke at the weather bureau announced Monday as weather experts promised more showers Monday afternoon and Tuesday. Total rainfall for the month was reported to be 4.12 inches, considerably below last year's total of 5.53 inches, and also below last month's total of 5.15 inches.

Rains during the month have kept Pickaway County pastures green and corn growing, but have also done considerable damage to ripening wheat fields.

HITLER OVER PHILADELPHIA

U. S. intelligence officers, who have been pretty accurate so far about most Nazi tactics, have reported that Hitler held up his attack on Britain largely because he was waiting for the Republican National Convention to finish its business.

Apparently, he figured that the Republicans would try to hamstring Roosevelt by adopting a semi-isolationist platform plank, and by spreading as much doubt as possible throughout the country regarding Roosevelt's policy of aiding the Allies. Hitler's policy always has been divide and rule.

FRENCH WEST INDIES

The biggest news that will come out of the Havana conference, of Pan-American foreign ministers is a proposal to administer the French possessions in this hemisphere under an inter-American trust.

The threat of German occupation of colonial territory is the principal reason for calling the Havana conference. A concrete proposal has been worked out in Washington which will be presented as soon as it opens.

This calls for joint administration of the French possessions, without change of their present form of local government, but providing a substitute for the French colonial office, and guaranteeing that there shall be no change of sovereignty.

Diplomats anticipate that Hitler will try to check this by a formal declaration along the lines of his recent press interview—namely, that he has no intention of disturbing the situation in the Western Hemisphere.

But this pledge is discounted in advance. The position of the American republics is that the possessions belong to the French Republic, and will be held in trust until France regains her freedom.

Note—largest of the French possessions is the island of Martinique, one of the chain of Lesser Antilles, running from Puerto Rico to the mainland of South America. Martinique has an excellent harbor (Fort de France) and was the birthplace of Empress Josephine.

FLOOD VICTIMS MAY REACH 12 IN TEXAS DISTRICT

HALLETTVILLE, Texas, July 1—From five to 12 persons were feared today to have been drowned by a flood of the Lavaca River near Hallettsville in the wake of heavy rains over the week end. Three bodies had been recovered this morning.

State police and members of rescue parties reported many persons had been driven to tree tops and the roofs of buildings by the flood waters, which burst the banks of the Lavaca River near Hallettsville and the Colorado River near Smithville, 50 miles northwest.

At least 300 homes were believed to have been damaged.

At Smithville, 16 inches of rain fell in less than 15 hours, and the Colorado rose to a head of 20 feet there. At La Grange, 20 miles downstream from Smithville, a 47 foot crest was reached.

The rivers were receding today, and although a number of bridges were damaged, highway travel was expected to be resumed within a few hours.

TORPEDOES HIT TWO MORE SHIPS IN N. ATLANTIC

NEW YORK, July 1—Two more ships were listed today as victims of torpedoes in the North Atlantic. Mackay radio reported receipt of a message from the American steamer Excalibur stating the 3,921-ton British steamer Guido and the Canadian steamer Zarian had been torpedoed off the western coast of France. The Zarian reported she needed the air of tugs immediately.

(Lloyd's register of shipping lists a 4,871-ton vessel named Zarian registered at Freetown, Sierra Leone, rather than Canada.)

U. S. S. COOLIDGE AT HONG KONG; PURPOSE SECRET

HONG KONG, July 1—Sudden return of the United States liner President Coolidge to Hong Kong a few hours after sailing for Manila led to widespread speculation today.

It was stated the vessel received instructions from Washington to return to Hong Kong. It was believed possible that this was done to remove Americans from the British crown colony, but American consular officials said they had no news on this point.

The President Coolidge was standing by, waiting further instructions.

MOVIE OF NAVY SCHEDULED FOR GRAND THEATRE

An up-to-the-minute story of the United States Navy is being shown at the Grand Theatre Wednesday and Thursday in the latest March of Time film, "The U. S. Navy—1940," which pictures the condition of America's battlefleets today and shows how they will be developed and expanded under President Roosevelt's new National Defense program.

The film vividly pictures the disintegration of the U. S. Navy after the first World War, when mounting anti-war sentiment and the Washington Naval Disarmament Conference of 1922 brought about the scrapping of more than a half million tons of warships, including many unfinished cruisers and dreadnaughts that had already cost American taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars.

The work of rebuilding the U.S. Navy was begun nine years ago, when Japan's invasion of China led off the long parade of international aggression culminating in the current second World War. For the construction of 130 new ships and general maintenance of the Navy, the film points out, the American people have already spent four and a half billion dollars; and under the new National Defense program they must now pay many billions more.

In "The U. S. Navy—1940," the March of Time shows the enlistment and training of young sailors today, the operation of Naval ROTC units in U. S. colleges and universities, the work of each type of vessel in the Navy, the strategic importance and elaborate defenses of the Panama Canal, and how the U. S. Coast Guard and Marine Corps are geared to cooperate with the Navy in case of national emergency.

Since 1911, the U. S. Navy has been gradually building up its air arm. The March of Time reveals, and current expansion plans are expected to bring this force up to 10,000 planes and 16,000 officer-pilots. The film points out that the Navy's deadly-accurate bomb is today the most priceless and most closely guarded of all the nation's military secrets.

Admirals and bluejackets alike are well aware that the billions now being appropriated by Congress cannot be converted into armaments, ships and planes before many months, or even years, have passed. The men who serve in the Navy know that it is not perfect, the March of Time points out, but all military experts agree that even now, in 1940, it has no equal.

In "The U. S. Navy—1940," the March of Time has given the nation's movie-goers an accurate, thorough, and encouraging pictorial analysis of their "first line of defense," enhanced by many dramatic scenes of naval forces in action that were filmed by March of Time camera crews aboard the U. S. S. California during recent maneuvers in the Pacific.

12 CARS FILLED WITH HEREFORDS MOVES TO EAST

Twelve railroad cars loaded with cattle, the largest shipment ever made by the Pickaway County Livestock Association, were sent to New York Monday, Harry Briggs, manager of the Livestock Association, said. The 204 white-face Herefords came from Ward Wolf's farm in Salter Creek Township.

When they were purchased last

November, they weighed 865 pounds each, and when they were weighed Monday they averaged about 1,350 pounds. This is a gain of about 500 pounds each, or approximately two pounds per steer per day. Manager Briggs pointed out. Their ration consisted of soybean meal, ground corn and molasses.

The cattle were purchased through the Pickaway County Livestock Association and were sold through Frank Tegardin, Pickaway County cattle man, to Swift and Company in New York.

The only other shipment that approaches in size the one made Monday, was a shipment of 11 carloads of steers last October.

During Sir Walter Raleigh's imprisonment in the Tower of London, during the reign of James I, before his execution he wrote his "History of the World," one of the literary masterpieces of the time.

17 RAINY DAYS LISTED IN JUNE IN COUNTY AREA

Circleville had rain 17 days in June, Miss Abbe Mills Clarke at the weather bureau announced Monday as weather experts promised more showers Monday afternoon and Tuesday. Total rainfall for the month was reported to be 4.12 inches, considerably below last year's total of 5.53 inches, and also below last month's total of 5.15 inches.

Rains during the month have kept Pickaway County pastures green and corn growing, but have also done considerable damage to ripening wheat fields.

FLOOD VICTIMS MAY REACH 12 IN TEXAS DISTRICT

HALLETTVILLE, Texas, July 1—From five to 12 persons were feared today to have been drowned by a flood of the Lavaca River near Hallettsville in the wake of heavy rains over the week end. Three bodies had been recovered this morning.

State police and members of rescue parties reported many persons had been driven to tree tops and the roofs of buildings by the flood waters, which burst the banks of the Lavaca River near Hallettsville and the Colorado River near Smithville, 50 miles northwest.

At least 300 homes were believed to have been damaged. At Smithville, 16 inches of rain fell in less than 15 hours, and the Colorado rose to a head of 20 feet there. At La Grange, 20 miles downstream from Smithville, a 47 foot crest was reached.

The rivers were receding today, and although a number of bridges were damaged, highway travel was expected to be resumed within a few hours.

TORPEDOES HIT TWO MORE SHIPS IN N. ATLANTIC

NEW YORK, July 1—Two more ships were listed today as victims of torpedoes in the North Atlantic. Mackay radio reported receipt of a message from the American steamer Excalibur stating the 3,921-ton British steamer Guido and the Canadian steamer Zarian had been torpedoed off the western coast of France. The Zarian reported she needed the air of tugs immediately.

(Lloyd's register of shipping lists a 4,871-ton vessel named Zarian registered at Freetown, Sierra Leone, rather than Canada.)

U. S. S. COOLIDGE AT HONG KONG; PURPOSE SECRET

HONG KONG, July 1—Sudden return of the United States liner President Coolidge to Hong Kong a few hours after sailing for Manila led to widespread speculation today.

It was stated the vessel received instructions from Washington to return to Hong Kong. It was believed possible that this was done to remove Americans from the British crown colony, but American consular officials said they had no news on this point.

The President Coolidge was standing by, waiting further instructions.

MOVIE OF NAVY SCHEDULED FOR GRAND THEATRE

An up-to-the-minute story of the United States Navy is being shown at the Grand Theatre Wednesday and Thursday in the latest March of Time film, "The U. S. Navy—1940," which pictures the condition of America's battlefleets today and shows how they will be developed and expanded under President Roosevelt's new National Defense program.

The film vividly pictures the disintegration of the U. S. Navy after the first World War, when mounting anti-war sentiment and the Washington Naval Disarmament Conference of 1922 brought about the scrapping of more than a half million tons of warships, including many unfinished cruisers and dreadnaughts that had already cost American taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars.

The work of rebuilding the U. S. Navy was begun nine years ago, when Japan's invasion of China led off the long parade of international aggression culminating in the current second World War. For the construction of 130 new ships and general maintenance of the Navy, the film points out, the American people have already spent four and a half billion dollars; and under the new National Defense program they must now pay many billions more.

In "The U. S. Navy—1940," the March of Time shows the enlistment and training of young sailors today, the operation of Naval R.O.T.C. units in U. S. colleges and universities, the work of each type of vessel in the Navy, the strategic importance and elaborate defenses of the Panama Canal, and how the U. S. Coast Guard and Marine Corps are geared to cooperate with the Navy in case of national emergency.

Since 1911, the U. S. Navy has been gradually building up its air arm. The March of Time reveals, and current expansion plans are expected to bring this force up to 10,000 planes and 16,000 officer-pilots. The film points out that the Navy's deadly-accurate bombsight is today the most priceless and most closely guarded of all the nation's military secrets.

Admirals and bluejackets alike are well aware that the billions now being appropriated by Congress cannot be converted into armaments, ships and planes before many months, or even years, have passed. The men who serve in the Navy know that it is not perfect, the March of Time points out, but all military experts agree that even now, in 1940, it has no equal.

In "The U. S. Navy—1940," the March of Time has given the nation's movie-goers an accurate, thorough, and encouraging pictorial analysis of their "first line of defense," enhanced by many dramatic scenes of naval forces in action that were filmed by March of Time camera crews aboard the U. S. S. California during recent maneuvers in the Pacific.

12 CARS FILLED WITH HEREFORDS MOVES TO EAST

Twelve railroad cars loaded with cattle, the largest shipment ever made by the Pickaway County Livestock Association, were sent to New York Monday, Harry Briggs, manager of the Livestock Association, said. The 204 white-face Herefords came from Ward Wolf's farm in Saltcreek Township. When they were purchased last November, they weighed 865 pounds each, and when they were weighed Monday they averaged about 1,350 pounds. This is a gain of about 500 pounds each, or approximately two pounds per steer per day. Manager Briggs pointed out. Their ration consisted of soybean meal, ground corn and molasses.

The cattle were purchased through the Pickaway County Livestock Association and were sold through Frank Teegardin, Pickaway County cattle man, to Swift and Company in New York.

The only other shipment that approaches in size the one made Monday, was a shipment of 11 carloads of steers last October.

WORKING FOR AMERICA

"FRENCH workmen," a commentator reminds us, "who would not work more than 40 hours a week for themselves and for their country, may now work 60 hours a week for their enemies."

There is much anxiety in the United States today lest the gains made by labor in shorter hours and better hourly wages be lost in the race for preparedness. There may be more than one way of regarding those gains, and of protecting them.

When there is a serious crisis in a family every member turns to with all his time, strength and ability. Wide-eyed children do their chores without squabbling quietly ask if there is something more they can do. Quiet adults snatch what sleep is necessary to conserve their strength, but stay long hours on the job of nursing the sick, feeding the family, keeping the home fires burning, and all the rest. When the trouble is over, normal living is resumed. There is leisure again for all, and a chance to pursue individual interests without interference from other members of the family.

It might be that readiness to produce more by working more would be to labor's own best interests in the long run, provided, of course, that exploitation was not permitted and that profiteering by employers was banned as effectively as soldiering by workers. Surrendered leisure would be a modest price to pay for preserved democracy.

WALKERS TO BLAME

CLEVELAND, Ohio, winner of the 1939 title of Safest Big City, is now in danger of losing that distinction. Traffic fatalities are increasing instead of diminishing there. In the latter part of June the total for the year was 56 as compared with 46 at the same time in 1939.

The striking fact about the change is that most of the people killed were pedestrians. The number of such traffic victims has increased by 13 while the number of non-pedestrian deaths has decreased by three. Furthermore, police report a 20 percent decrease in auto accidents for the year so far. And the motorists have been found blameless in most of the deaths recorded.

In other words, jaywalking—which includes all the forms of disregarding traffic regulations of which people on foot are guilty—is the big traffic menace today. That is why pedestrians may soon be held to as strict account for traffic violations as motorists, with arrest and penalties applied for the general safety.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S plan for the compulsory industrial training of about 2,000,000 youths annually, as a part of Uncle Sam's permanent national defense program hasn't assumed a sufficiently concrete form yet to have elicited much general comment.

However, the President already has delegated to Sidney Hillman, our National Defense Council's labor co-ordinator, the task of presenting the scheme coherently enough for congressional consideration. The supposition is that Hillman will have it in shape for popular discussion by late July or early August. Thenceforward it's a safe prediction that it will be the subject of plenty of "pro" and "con" argument—preponderantly adverse, I judge, from the little I've heard concerning it thus far.

As previously remarked, to date it's too vague for the man in the street to have paid much attention to it, but our legislators on Capitol Hill began debating it informally from the minute that the White House tentatively suggested it through the news correspondents' corps.

Anti-Rooseveltians instantly turned thumbs down on it. Administration leaders, surprised at first, now speak favorably of the scheme, but even they say they think the public will need to be considerably "educated" before it takes to it.

military conscription as altogether a different thing from a draft for ordinary industrial training. Folk doubtless deplore and probably largely resent the forcible mustering of the country's sons into the nation's fighting ranks. Nevertheless, the whole world's more or less accustomed to it. It's been the rule for generations both in war and peace-time throughout continental Europe. We've had it in the United States in emergencies. It never has been deemed undemocratic. The freest peoples on earth, like the Swiss, have relied on it.

In fact, it's been rated in some lands, almost as a symbol of their democracy. But drafting the boys to train 'em into efficient industrial workers is another sort of a proposition. Our youth administration unquestionably has had some such end in mind, but it's been purely voluntary. It hasn't conscripted anybody.

FORCED LABOR?

Many of our lawmakers at Capitol Hill's end of Washington's Pennsylvania avenue—the opposite end from the White House—mention the presidential plan of youth's industrial conscription as smacking strongly of Herr Hitler's compulsory labor training camps—in short, temporarily forced labor—a kind of slavery. Maybe this is an inexact way of putting it.

Maybe an industrial trainee is no more a slave than is a military

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

CANAL ENTRANCES MINED

WASHINGTON—The Navy may not admit it, but the secret reason for suddenly mining the waters around the Panama Canal was the sighting of two submarines off the Pacific side of the Canal.

They were sighted by an Army aviator, who was not able to distinguish their nationality. Since no U. S. submarines were in that vicinity, the Army and Navy both were convinced they must be Japanese. Obviously it would be difficult for German submarines to get into Pacific waters.

Another factor which has our Navy command worried was that last week, while part of the Japanese fleet left for French Indo-China, another part left for an unnamed destination off into the Pacific. That was one reason why the U. S. Fleet suddenly was ordered from Hawaii to Panama. For it is suspected that the Japanese may be paying a visit to Chile, perhaps stopping en route at the Galapagos Islands, which the United States is now trying to lease for a naval base to protect the Panama Canal.

Another reason is the fear that Hitler, having secured part of the French fleet, might pool forces with the Italians (after the end of the British campaign) and make a foray into American Atlantic waters. With part of the Japanese fleet simultaneously in Chilean waters, the problem of defense would be difficult.

But with the U. S. fleet at Panama, it can get into either Atlantic or Pacific in a hurry.

WILLKIE'S HAIR

When baldish Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan was asked what he thought of Wendell Willkie as a candidate, he replied:

"Well, he has a million dollars worth of hair, which ought to mean about 12,000,000 women's votes. Therein and there only has he got it over me."

GOP LABOR PLANK

The Republican labor plank as adopted was very different from the one originally written by the platform makers.

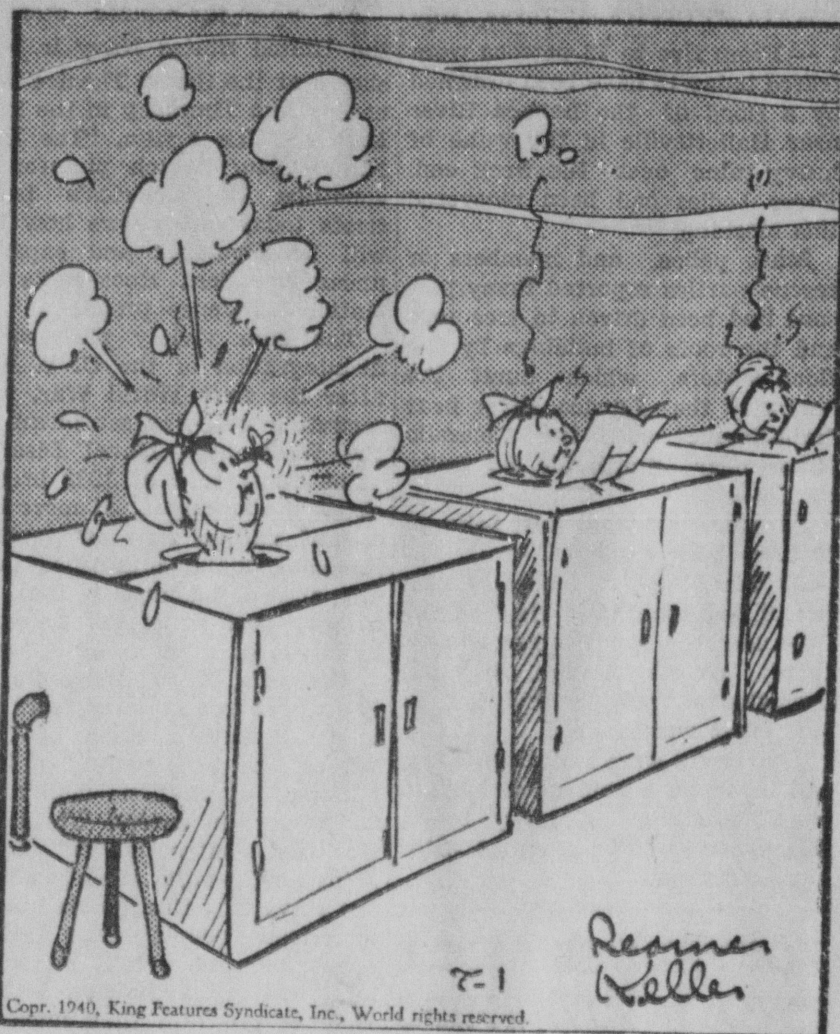

Theirs had said nothing about amending the National Labor Relations Act, except for a vague statement about the desirability of improving the Labor Board administration.

This soft-pedaling had been decided on as a "come-on" gesture to John L. Lewis, who had praised Herbert Hoover and blasted Roosevelt before the resolutions committee. The CIO is against revision of the Labor Act, and the inner master minds deemed it good strategy to make a friendly move toward Lewis.

But when certain big industrial contributors got wind of the proposed plank, they started the wires buzzing with irate protests. They insisted the platform make a specific declaration in favor of amendment of the law.

Alf Landon, whose pre-arranged prompting had led to Lewis' anti-Roosevelt barrage, resisted this pressure strongly. (Continued on Page Three)

Salt Water Itch Affects Novice Ocean Bathers

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN THE REGION of Southern ocean waters, Florida and Southern California, bathers sometimes get a dermatitis which the natives call "salt water itch." It appears most often in the armpits, coming on at the same time on both sides. It is very unlikely that it is due to salt water alone. More probable is the explanation that it is due to some minute animal or tropical plant. The old timers and regular bathers are not so subject to it as the visitors who acquire it in about two to four weeks; this would make it look as if the regular bathers acquired an immunity.

The armpits are natural places for fungus infections to grow; the hair provides a good resting place for them; the situation is warm and moist, an ideal culture medium.

As to prevention, soap and fresh water after the swim is the most natural and easiest effective remedy. Applications of 50 per cent alcohol and boric acid solution is a good routine for after bathing. The use of an oily application before bathing—olive oil, coconut oil or petrolatum—is a good protective device.

Treatment of "salt water itch" after it has occurred, with calamine lotion, salicylic acid ointment or ammoniated mercury ointment if secondary infection has occurred, is reported to be successful.

Keeping up our promise to underweights, here is another diet to help put on pounds:

Breakfast: Orange juice, oatmeal with cream; lamb chops; muffins; coffee with cream.
Mid-morning: A malted milk Luncheon: Hamburger steak; stuffed baked potato; corn bread; butter; fruit salad; tea with cream.
Dinner: Roast beef; lima beans; bread with butter; ice cream; coffee with cream.
Evening: Ice cream soda.
Value—4,200 calories.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. L.—"Please answer if you can have whooping cough and not whoop. My little granddaughter has had a bad cough for about seven weeks, vomits, and it really seems like whooping cough but there is no whoop."

Answer—The whoop of whooping cough is due to a spasm of the larynx after a prolonged spell of coughing, so that the child sucks in the breath, making the characteristic noise. If this spasm is not present, there will be no whoop but there may be whooping cough just the same. A child who has been coughing for seven weeks and vomits probably has whooping cough.

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
LINDA AVERY, receptionist at a New York models' agency, starts to rebuild her romance with RONALD STAFFORD, her childhood sweetheart, who has swung his way to fame on a trumpet, but
SARAH MARKLEY, wealthy glamor girl, is trying to capture Ronald for herself. Meanwhile
ROBERT BARTON, young engineer living in the apartment above, meets Linda in an unconventional manner.

YESTERDAY: Linda invites Robert to go with her to a party given by Sarah Markley for Ronnie.

CHAPTER THREE

IMPULSIVELY as she had asked Robert Barton, the young engineer from the apartment above hers, to accompany her to Sarah Markley's party, Linda's voice had been cool, no huskier than usual.

"That isn't a favor," Robert answered. "You're putting me in your debt again. White tie or black?"

"Black, I guess. It's been a glorious evening."

Once that night Linda's telephone rang. She picked it up quickly. It would be Ronald, thinking of her somewhere across the rainy city.

But it wasn't Ronald. It was a woman who wanted an all-night delicatessen and had dialed the wrong number.

But he did call at 12 the next day, as she sat at the white desk in the silver and white reception room of the Bagley agency.

"Linda?"

"Yes, Ronnie."

"Then you haven't forgotten my telephone voice?"

"No, nor the cleft in your chin or the cowlick in your hair," she thought, as she replied, "I have a memory for voices."

"Are you hungry?"

"Starved!"

"How soon may I pick you up?"

About one?"

"That will be fine."

"I'll be five minutes early."

He was, too, and he slipped her hand through his quite as though it weren't an April noon on Fifth avenue, with the sun shining and people everywhere.

He took her to a quiet restaurant, where the music was muted and not many people came. It was expensive, though, Linda knew.

They picked up the thread of events where they had dropped it. They talked of this boy and that girl; of the people who had bought the two old southern mansions which once had been so exclusively theirs; of the mocking birds, and Hamilton's shabby old railroad station. Finally Ronald said:

"Can you understand someone's keeping a dream, expecting it to wait safely, being a little ashamed to write because success was a laggard?"

"Can now," she answered softly. He opened his wallet and from it he took out a snapshot. It was a younger Linda, but the eyes were as wide and dark and eager, the curls as tumbling.

"Remember the day we won the doubles? That's a tennis racket in your hand—I mean the handle of it made the picture." He replaced the picture carefully. His eyes were very young but very steady as he leaned across the table. "I'm glad I found you, Linda honey. I was afraid I wouldn't."

He took her back to the entrance of her building when the luncheon was over, and Linda was aware of the glances of the girls who passed as they paused in the lobby.

"You're coming tonight, aren't you, Lin?" he asked. "I'm keen to play—I feel like a trained seal performing—but it's part of the game. I'd call for you, but there's a dinner party first. I could shake that Markley's girl's shoulders for leaving you out, but I guess she had her list made. There'll be a couple of hundred people milling around at the party afterward. But I'll be taking you home."

"Is Sarah Markley nice?" Linda asked suddenly. "As nice as she is beautiful?"

His eyes were teasing, adoring. "Not half so nice as you are, honey. But nice, definitely."

"Goop! And, Ronnie, I've got a young man bringing me to the party. I was commanded to get one. Remember?"

He was silent a moment. "Known him long?" he asked, and there was a thread of worry in his voice.

"Not very." Some time she would explain the man's mysterious entrance into her life.

"Like him?"

"Sort of, but not the way I like you," she answered laughingly. The sun was laying bright fingers of light across the avenue, a peddler was passing with a tray of violets and gardenias, some place a hurdy-gurdy played a gay, new song. And Ronald had come back.

The afternoon went swiftly and the hours from the time Linda arrived at home until nine o'clock when Robert Barton was due passed even more quickly. At eight o'clock a florist's cool green box arrived. She opened it to find an orchid corsage. Three flowers, the same delicate green as the box in which they had come, waited for her to fasten them at her shoulder. There was an envelope with them and she opened it with slim fingers that trembled a little. Ronald or Robert Barton? Which would it be?

If the blossoms came from Robert, it would be a charming gesture. But if they came from Ronnie it would be springtime in heaven with a dream half-true.

She opened the folded note. "I'll be watching for you, Ronnie."

With winged hands she turned on the water in the shower, brushed her shining hair and coaxed the curls into a coronet which she bound with a silver ribbon that matched the silver bracelets set with amethysts which she had inherited from her grandmother. She had intended to wear a slim black frock which one of the models had found for her at a bargain price when a famous couturier had a sale. It was chic and smart. Now she discarded it. With the coming of the flowers, she did not want to be svelte and sophisticated. She wanted to be gay, happy, colorful.

She removed a violet chiffon evening frock from the covered hanger and slipped into it. It molded her slim body, but the skirt swept away into billowing flounces. The girl was wide and a silver thread glided through its darker purple. She had worn this dress with Ronnie twice before he went away. She had had a happy time in it. Maybe the luck still held. Perhaps he would remember it. Not likely, though, for he must have seen so many dresses—yellow, orange, green, rose, blue.

Her evening sandals were the same silver-threaded material as the dress. She touched her lips with rouge, brightened her cheeks, dusted powder gently across her nose and face, put on the corsage.

There was a knock at her door—a gay knock, a knock that laughed at itself. That would be Robert. For a few hours she had forgotten him.

The young engineer from upstairs was a handsome figure in his evening clothes, one that made Linda glance at him appreciatively. His eyes approved the violet frock, the shining eyes. But when he had chatted a moment, he said:

"By the way, is this Sarah Markley, who is giving the shindig this evening, the producer's yellow-haired daughter? For if she is, I've two aunts and three cousins who've been waiting me to get in touch with her. I'm from the west coast, you see, and sort of strange around here."

"It's the same girl." Some of the loveliness of the night was going. Robert's eyes were so quizzical.

"Known her long?"

"Since yesterday. We exchanged about seven sentences."

"She's a heart breaker, I've heard. I know a couple of the victims. I've never liked her type. She made a gossip column in tonight's paper."

"With whom?" Linda asked. But she knew before he answered. Sarah's slow, confident words came back. Bring any nice young man you want to.

So Sarah wanted to annex Ronnie, too, did she? This time the yellow-haired glamor queen would have a harder time!

WORKING FOR AMERICA

"FRENCH workmen," a commentator reminds us, "who would not work more than 40 hours a week for themselves and for their country, may now work 60 hours a week for their enemies."

There is much anxiety in the United States today lest the gains made by labor in shorter hours and better hourly wages be lost in the race for preparedness. There may be more than one way of regarding those gains, and of protecting them.

When there is a serious crisis in a family every member turns to with all his time, strength and ability. Wide-eyed children do their chores without squabbling quietly ask if there is something more they can do. Quiet adults snatch what sleep is necessary to conserve their strength, but stay long hours on the job of nursing the sick, feeding the family, keeping the home fires burning, and all the rest. When the trouble is over, normal living is resumed. There is leisure again for all, and a chance to pursue individual interests without interference from other members of the family.

It might be that readiness to produce more by working more would be to labor's own best interests in the long run, provided, of course, that exploitation was not permitted and that profiteering by employers was banned as effectively as soldiering by workers. Surrendered leisure would be a modest price to pay for preserved democracy.

WALKERS TO BLAME

CLEVELAND, Ohio, winner of the 1939 title of Safest Big City, is now in danger of losing that distinction. Traffic fatalities are increasing instead of diminishing there. In the latter part of June the total for the year was 56 as compared with 46 at the same time in 1939.

The striking fact about the change is that most of the people killed were pedestrians. The number of such traffic victims has increased by 13 while the number of non-pedestrian deaths has decreased by three. Furthermore, police report a 20 percent decrease in auto accidents for the year so far. And the motorists have been found blameless in most of the deaths recorded.

In other words, jaywalking—which includes all the forms of disregarding traffic regulations of which people on foot are guilty—is the big traffic menace today. That is why pedestrians may soon be held to as strict account for traffic violations as motorists, with arrest and penalties applied for the general safety.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S plan for the compulsory industrial training of about 2,000,000 youths annually, as a part of Uncle Sam's permanent national defense program hasn't assumed a sufficiently concrete form yet to have elicited much general comment.

However, the President already has delegated to Sidney Hillman, our National Defense Council's labor co-ordinator, the task of presenting the scheme coherently enough for congressional consideration. The supposition is that Hillman will have it in shape for popular discussion by late July or early August. Thereafter it will be the subject of plenty of "pro" and "con" argument—preponderantly adverse, I'd judge, from the little I've heard concerning it thus far.

As previously remarked, to date it's too vague for the man in the street to have paid much attention to it, but our legislators on Capitol Hill began debating it informally from the minute that the White House tentatively suggested it through the news correspondents' corps.

Anti-Rooseveltians instantly turned thumbs down on it. Administration leaders, surprised at first, now speak favorably of the scheme, but even they say they think the public will need to be considerably "educated" before it takes to it.

PLAIN WORK VS. SOLDIERING
Congressional critics refer to military conscription as altogether a different thing from a draft for ordinary industrial training.

Folk doubtless deplore and probably largely resent the forcible mustering of the country's sons into the nation's fighting ranks. Nevertheless, the whole world's more or less accustomed to it. It's been the rule for generations both in war and peace-time throughout continental Europe. We've had it in the United States in emergencies. It never has been deemed undemocratic. The freest peoples on earth, like the Swiss, have relied on it.

In fact, it's been relied on in some lands, almost as a symbol of their democracy.

But drafting the boys to train 'em into efficient industrial workers is another sort of a proposition. Our youth administration unquestionably has had some such end in mind, but it's been purely voluntary. It hasn't conscripted anybody.

FORCED LABOR?

Many of our lawmakers at Capitol Hill's end of Washington's Pennsylvania Avenue—the opposite end from the White House—mention the presidential plan of youth's industrial conscription as smacking strongly of Herr Hitler's compulsory labor training camps—in short, temporarily forced labor—a kind of slavery.

Maybe this is an inexact way of putting it.

Maybe an industrial trainee is no more a slave than is a military

CANAL ENTRANCES MINED

WASHINGTON—The Navy may not admit it, but the secret reason for suddenly mining the waters around the Panama Canal was the sighting of two submarines off the Pacific side of the Canal.

They were sighted by an Army aviator, who was not able to distinguish their nationality. Since no U. S. submarines were in that vicinity, the Army and Navy both were convinced they must be Japanese. Obviously it would be difficult for German submarines to get into Pacific waters.

Another factor which has our Navy command worried was that last week, while part of the Japanese fleet left for French Indo-China, another part left for an unnamed destination off into the Pacific.

That was one reason why the U. S. Fleet suddenly was ordered from Hawaii to Panama. For it is suspected that the Japanese may be paying a visit to Chile, perhaps stopping en route at the Galapagos Islands, which the United States is now trying to lease for a naval base to protect the Panama Canal.

Another reason is the fear that Hitler, having secured part of the French fleet, might pool forces with the Italians (after the end of the British campaign) and make a foray into American Atlantic waters. With part of the Japanese fleet simultaneously in Chilean waters, the problem of defense would be difficult.

But with the U. S. fleet at Panama, it can get into either Atlantic or Pacific in a hurry.

WILLKIE'S HAIR

When baldish Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan was asked what he thought of Wendell Willkie as a candidate, he replied:

"Well, he has a million dollars worth of hair, which ought to mean about 12,000,000 women's votes. Therein and there only has he got it over me."

GOP LABOR PLANK

The Republican labor plank as adopted was very different from the one originally written by the platform makers.

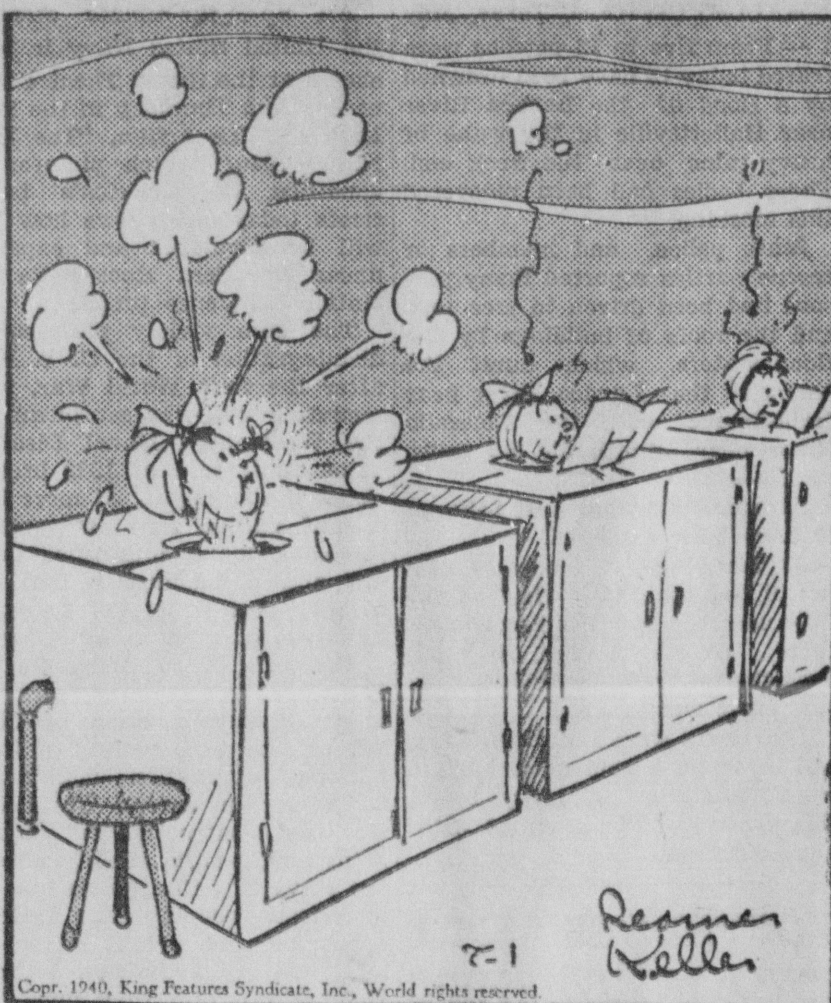

Theirs had said nothing about amending the National Labor Relations Act, except for a vague statement about the desirability of improving the Labor Board administration.

This soft-pedaling had been decided on as a "come-on" gesture to John L. Lewis, who had praised Herbert Hoover and blasted Roosevelt before the resolutions committee. The CIO is against revision of the Labor Act, and the inner master minds deemed it good strategy to make a friendly move toward Lewis.

But when certain big industrial contributors got wind of the proposed plank, they started the wires buzzing with irate protests. They insisted the platform make a specific declaration in favor of amendment of the law.

Alf Landon, whose pre-arranged prompting had led to Lewis' anti-Roosevelt barrage, resisted this pressure strongly. (Continued on Page Three)

Salt Water Itch Affects Novice Ocean Bathers

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN THE REGION of Southern ocean waters, Florida and Southern California, bathers sometimes get a dermatitis which the natives call "salt water itch." It appears most often in the armpits, coming on at the same time on both sides. It is very unlikely that it is due to salt water alone. More probable is the explanation that it is due to some minute animal or tropical plant. The old timers and regular bathers are not so subject to it as the visitors who acquire it in about two to four weeks: this would make it look as if the regular bathers acquired an immunity.

The armpits are natural places for fungus infections to grow: the hair provides a good resting place for them: the situation is warm and moist, an ideal culture medium.

As to prevention, soap and fresh water after the swim is the most natural and easiest effective remedy. Applications of 50 per cent alcohol and boric acid solution is a good routine for after bathing. The use of an oily application before bathing—olive oil, coconut oil or petrolatum—is a good protective device.

Treatment of "salt water itch" after it has occurred, with calamine lotion, salicylic acid ointment or ammoniated mercury ointment if secondary infection has occurred, is reported to be successful.

Keeping up our promise to underweights, here is another diet to help put on pounds:

Breakfast: Orange juice, oatmeal with cream; lamb chops; muffins; coffee with cream.
Mid-morning: A malted milk Luncheon: Hamburger steak; stuffed baked potato; corn bread; butter; fruit salad; tea with cream.
Dinner: Roast beef; lima beans; bread with butter; ice cream; coffee with cream.
Evening: Ice cream soda.
Value—1,200 calories.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. L.—"Please answer if you can have whooping cough and not whoop. My little granddaughter had a bad cough for about seven weeks, vomits, and it really seems like whooping cough but there is no whoop."
Answer—The whoop of whooping cough is due to a spasm of the larynx after a prolonged spell of coughing, so that the child sucks in the breath, making the characteristic noise. If this spasm is not present, there will be no whoop but there may be whooping cough just the same. A child who has been coughing for seven weeks and vomits probably has whooping cough.

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
LINDA AVERY, receptionist at a New York models' agency, starts to rebuild her romance with RONALD STAFFORD, her childhood sweetheart, who has "swung his way to fame on a trumpet," but
SARAH MARKLEY, wealthy glamor girl, is trying to capture Ronald for herself. Meanwhile
ROBERT BARTON, young engineer living in the apartment above, meets Linda in an unconventional manner.

YESTERDAY: Linda invites Robert to go with her to a party given by Sarah Markley for Ronnie.

CHAPTER THREE

IMPULSIVELY as she had asked Robert Barton, the young engineer from the apartment above hers, to accompany her to Sarah Markley's party, Linda's voice had been cool, no huskier than usual.

"That isn't a favor," Robert answered. "You're putting me in your debt again. White tie or black?"

"Black, I guess. It's been a glorious evening."
Once that night Linda's telephone rang. She picked it up quickly. It would be Ronald, thinking of her somewhere across the rainy city.

But it wasn't Ronald. It was a woman who wanted an all-night delicatessen and had dialed the wrong number.

But he did call at 12 the next day, as she sat at the white desk in the silver and white reception room of the Bagley agency.

"Linda?"

"Yes, Ronnie."

"Then you haven't forgotten my telephone voice?"

"No, nor the cleft in your chin or the cowl in your hair," she thought, as she replied, "I have a memory for voices."

"Are you hungry?"

"Starved!"

"How soon may I pick you up?"

About one?"

"That will be fine."

"I'll be five minutes early."

He was, too, and he slipped her hand through his quite as though it weren't an April noon on Fifth avenue, with the sun shining and people everywhere.

He took her to a quiet restaurant, where the music was muted and not many people came. It was expensive, though, Linda knew.

They picked up the thread of events where they had dropped it. They talked of this boy and that girl; of the people who had bought the two old southern mansions which once had been so exclusively theirs; of the mocking birds, and Hamilton's shabby old railroad station. Finally Ronald said:

"Can you understand someone's keeping a dream, expecting it to come safely, being a little ashamed to write because success was a laggard?"

"I can now," she answered softly. He opened his wallet and from it he took out a snapshot. It was a younger Linda, but the eyes were as wide and dark and eager, the curls as tumbling.

"Remember the day we won the doubles? That's a tennis racquet in your hand—I mean the handle of it made the picture." He replaced the picture carefully. His eyes were very young but very steady as he leaned across the table. "I'm glad I found you, Linda honey. I was afraid I wouldn't."

He took her back to the entrance of her building when the luncheon was over, and Linda was aware of the glances of the girls who passed as they paused in the lobby.

"You're coming tonight, aren't you, Lin?" he asked. "I'm not keen to play—I feel like a trained seal performing—but it's part of the game. I'd call for you, but there's a dinner party first. I could shake that Markley's girl's shoulders for leaving you out, but I guess she had her list made out. There'll be a couple of hundred people milling

"Can you understand someone keeping a dream?"

around at the party afterward. But I'll be taking you home."

"Is Sarah Markley nice?" Linda asked suddenly. "As nice as she is beautiful?"

His eyes were teasing, adoring. "Not half so nice as you are, honey. But nice, definitely."

"Goop! And, Ronnie, I've got a young man bringing me to the party. I was commanded to get one. Remember?"

He was silent a moment. "Known him long?" he asked, and there was a thread of worry in his voice.

"Not very." Some time she would explain the man's mysterious entrance into her life.

"Like him?"

"Sort of, but not the way I like you," she answered laughingly.

The sun was laying bright fingers of light across the avenue, a peddler was passing with a tray of violets and gardenias, some place a hurdy-gurdy played a gay, new song. And Ronald had come back.

The afternoon went swiftly and the hours from the time Linda arrived at home until nine o'clock when Robert Barton was due passed even more quickly. At eight o'clock a florist's cool green box arrived. She opened it to find an orchid corsage. Three flowers, the same delicate green as the box in which they had come, waited for her to fasten them at her shoulder.

There was an envelope with them and she opened it with slim fingers that trembled a little. Ronald or Robert Barton? Which would it be?

If the blossoms came from Robert, it would be a charming gesture. But if they came from Ronald it would be springtime in heaven with a dream half-true.

She opened the folded note.

"I'll be watching for you, Ronnie."

With winged hands she turned on the water in the shower, brushed her shining hair and coaxed the curls into a coronet which she bound with a silver ribbon that matched the silver bracelets set with amethysts which she had inherited from her grandmother. She had intended to wear a slim black frock which one of the models had found for her at a bargain price when a famous couturier had a sale. It was chic and smart. Now she discarded it. With the coming of the flowers, she did not want to be svelte and sophisticated. She wanted to be gay, happy, colorful.

She removed a violet chiffon evening frock from the covered hanger and slipped into it. It molded her slim body, but the skirt swept away into billowing frounces. The girle was wide and a silver thread glided through its darker purple. She had worn this dress with Ronnie twice before he went away. She had had a happy time in it.

Maybe the luck still held. Perhaps he would remember it. Not likely, though, for he must have seen so many dresses—yellow, orange, green, rose, blue.

Her evening sandals were the same silver-threaded material as the girle. She touched her lips with rouge, brightened her cheeks, dusted powder gently across her nose and face, put on the corsage.

There was a knock at her door—a gay knock, a knock that laughed at itself. That would be Robert. For a few hours she had forgotten him.

The young engineer from upstairs was a handsome figure in his evening clothes, one that made Linda glance at him appreciatively. His eyes glowed the violet frock, the shining eyes. But when he had chatted a moment, he said:

"By the way, is this Sarah Markley, who is giving the shindig this evening, the producer's yellow-haired daughter? For if she is, I've two aunts and three cousins who've been wanting me to get in touch with her. I'm from the west coast, you see, and sort of strange around here."

"It's the same girl." Some of the loveliness of the night was going. Robert's eyes were so quizzical.

"Known her long?"

"Since yesterday. We exchanged about seven sentences."

"She's a heart breaker, I've heard. I know a couple of the victims. I've never liked her type. She made a gossip column in tonight's paper."

"With whom?" Linda asked. But she knew before he answered. Sarah's slow, confident words came back. Bring any nice young man you want to . . .

So Sarah wanted to annex Ronnie, too, did she? This time the yellow-haired glamor queen would have a harder time.

G. Peters.

Interesting contests were arranged for the entertainment of the guests, prizes going to Mrs. Elsamman, Mrs. Stocker, Mrs. Scott-horn, Mrs. Kuhn, Mrs. Millar and Mrs. Kraft.

The hostess, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Charles DeVoss of Mt. Sterling and Mrs. Everett Peters of Lockbourne, served lunch at 4 p. m.

Mrs. Frank Hudson will entertain the club at the July session.

Gildersleeve-Doner

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Doner of near Adelphi, Ross County announce the marriage of their daughter, Iona Mae, to Mr. Eugene Gildersleeve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gildersleeve of Salt Creek Township. The marriage service was read in the parsonage of the Stoutsville Evangelical Church at 10:45 a. m. Saturday by the Rev. Harold Dutt. During the ceremony Mrs. Dutt softly played "Leibestraum" at the piano.

Mr. R. E. Pittman of Columbus, an uncle of the bride, was present for the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Doner entertained the members of the immediate families and several close friends at a reception in their home following the wedding.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Gildersleeve will reside with the bridegroom's parents following their wedding trip.

Mr. Mrs. McKinley Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKinley of near Commercial Point were hosts at dinner Sunday, the affair being arranged by Mrs. McKinley in honor of her husband's birthday.

Lovely garden flowers and tall candles in silver holders were used in decorating the table where the dinner was served, a large birthday cake being an interesting feature.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Schleich and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKinley and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith and sons of the Williamsport community; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Carpenter and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller and family of Darbyville; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Liston and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reid and daughter, Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hill, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. James Rankin, Grove City, William Beavers and Robert McKinley of Commercial Point.

Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Shasteen of New Holland celebrated their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary Sunday. Owing to the illness of Mr. Shasteen, the day was quietly passed in informal visiting.

A bountiful dinner was served to members of the immediate family including Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Shasteen of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Shasteen of Washington C. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shasteen and Earl Shasteen of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shasteen of Chillicothe; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Shasteen of Wilmington; Mrs. Mary Keller, New Holland, a sister of Mr. Shasteen, and Mr. and Mrs. Shasteen of the home.

Y. T. S. Convention

Miss Jeanne Kinney and Miss Isabelle Noggle of Circleville have returned home after attending the Youths' Temperance Council convention at the Methodist Church of Middletown.

During the presentation of awards at the four day convention, Circleville received a sterling silver loving cup for the greatest increase in attendance, the percentage being 237.5 over the other Y. T. C. clubs.

Richard Haley was again elected president.

Class Of 1900 Conducts Reunion With 13 Present

One of the most enjoyable and interesting events of the social season was the reunion of the class of 1900 of Everts High School, which was held Saturday, June 29, at the Wardell party home. Several weeks ago, invitations were sent to members of the class who are scattered from coast to coast.

It is the custom of this class to meet every five years, and out of a class of 28, 13 responded.

The delicious dinner was served at 6:30 p. m. The table was beautiful with its crystal bowls of blue and yellow June garden flowers and yellow candles in crystal holders. Places were marked with handpainted cards decorated with a fac-simile of the class pin.

At roll call, letters of greeting and best wishes from absent members were read, after which the group stood for a few minutes in silence, a tribute to the memory of the four lost to the class by death, namely, Mabel Secrest, Mina Stewart, Frank Hamilton and Mary Wasserman Korach. Earl Warner, Detroit, Mich., president of the class, was toastmaster, and various members responded with incidents of school days. The class prophesy, written for the commencement exercises, was re-read by Mrs. Virginia Clark Kellstadt.

A pleasant surprise were the attractive favors, the gift of the class president.

One of the outstanding features of the evening was the showing of the motion pictures taken by Mr. Warner on his recent trip around the world.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Warner, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Denman, Columbus; Mrs. Ella Seal Nave, Westerville; Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Crites, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Adkins, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wolfe, Mrs. Mayme McMahon Shaner, Mrs. Cora Rader Hood, Mrs. Virginia Clark Kellstadt, Mrs. Nelle Sapp Phillips, Miss Gertrude Pontius, Miss Florence Hoffman and Lutz May of Circleville. Miss Mary Wilder was not present because of the critical illness of her sister, Mrs. Theodore Kirkendall, of Columbus. Other Circleville members unable to attend were Miss Marguerite Clark and Mrs. Maude Nooks Howard.

end in Washington C. H. guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCord and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Gall and sons, Jack and Morris, of Portsmouth spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Merz and daughter of 500 East Mound Street.

Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Bradley and family, Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jeffries and family of Columbus were Sunday guests of Mrs. T. F. Jeffries of South Scioto Street. Miss Jean Bradley, who had been visiting Mrs. Jeffries for the last two weeks, returned home with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lytle of 228½ East Main Street left Sunday for a two week vacation with relatives and friends in Decatur, Ill., and Madison, Ind.

Russell Valentine of West High Street and Paul Mason of Indianapolis, Ind., formerly of Circleville, left Saturday for a two week vacation trip to Michigan and Minnesota.

Miss Mary Jane Connelly of Chagrin Falls is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. S. B. Orr, of Pinckney Street.

Miss Marguerite Heffner of Columbus spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Heffner, of Wayne Township.

Miss Rilla Loomis of Ravenna, O., Miss Evelyn DePuy of Des Moines, Ia., Miss Elizabeth Smith of Akron were weekend guests of Miss Mary Newmyer at the home and Patty Kiehl, and Mrs. Jenny Poston of Columbus.

GARDEN HINTS

If you want to achieve color in a shaded area all through the summer, use tuberous-rooted begonias. Potted plants can be set out at this time.

House plants should now be set outdoors for their summer vacation. A sheltered location, or the shade under a tree, is best for them. Set the pots into the soil up to their rims. During dry spells remember to water them.

Harden-Johnson Vows Exchanged In Church

Rev. C. L. Thomas In Charge Of Sunday Ceremony

Wearing an old rose street length frock, Miss Evella Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson of 646 Roosevelt Avenue, Piqua, became the bride of Mr. Ned Harden of 708 North Pickaway Street, Sunday, at a noon wedding in the Methodist Church. The Rev. C. L. Thomas of East Ringgold officiated at the single ring service. Summer flowers decorated the altar and chancel for the ceremony.

The bride's dress was fashioned with a full skirt and a large taffeta bow at the side of the shirred waistline. White lace formed the cuffs of the short puff sleeves and she wore white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Dorothy Miller of Piqua was maid of honor, her frock of dusty pink chiffon having a brown lace bodice and full skirt. A corsage of pink carnations and blue delphinium, and accessories of white complemented her outfit.

Mr. Thomas Harden served his brother as best man. Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Harden, parents of the bridegroom, entertained the bridal party and a few close relatives and friends at an informal reception in their home on North Pickaway Street.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Harden left during the afternoon for a wedding trip to Michigan and the Great Lakes region. For traveling, the bride wore a navy blue sheer suit trimmed in pink and used navy accessories.

When they return they will reside at 465 East Main Street where their home is already furnished.

The former Miss Johnson is a graduate of the Piqua High School and until recently, has been employed in the offices of the Circleville and Columbus Cussins and Fearn company stores.

Mr. Harden, a Circleville High School graduate, is associated with his father in the Harden-Stevens Co.

Hedges Chapel Aid

The Ladies' Aid Society of Hedges Chapel met June 28 at the home of Miss Florence Brown, Walnut Township with 19 members and several visitors present. Mrs. Homer Reber was in charge of the meeting.

After group singing of "America," the scripture lesson was read from Matthew 24.

Mrs. Reber appointed Mrs. Laura Pontius, Mrs. Della Rife and Mrs. Irma Lamb members of the nominating committee to select officers for the coming year. Recitations by Peggy Carpenter, Alice Carpenter, Susan and David Hedges and a piano solo by Leda Diehl were included in the program.

Interesting contests were followed by a delightful lunch served by Mrs. Pontius, Mrs. Pearl Hedges and Miss Brown.

Silver Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wharton of near Ashville observed their silver wedding anniversary Sunday at their home, friends and relatives gathering for a cooperative dinner at noon. The affair also complimented their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton of Circleville, who were married recently.

Vases of lovely garden flowers decorated the home. Dinner was served on the lawn.

Mr. and Mrs. Wharton received lovely gifts of silver from their friends.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Courtwright and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Cromley and family, Miss Caroline Castel, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rader and family, Mr. and Mrs. David Dunick and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barthelmas and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Speakman and son, Ralph Stevenson and family, near Ashville; Mr. and Mrs. Cyril McKenzie and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cryder, near Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morrison, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mowery and family, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Warner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Dudson, Mr. and Mrs. John Wolford and son,

Boeher-Lightburn

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Helen M. Lightburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Lightburn of Crestline, to Mr. Harold J. W. Boeher, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Boeher of Hallsville. Mr. and Mrs. Boeher were married September 23, 1939, in the Episcopal Church at Lexington, Ky. The service was read by the Rev. John Mulder and the only attendants were Mrs. Mulder and Mrs. Liberty Greene of Lexington.

Announcement of the marriage was made at a supper party Friday when Miss Osie Bryant and Miss Lucy Thornton, Chillicothe, entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Glenn McKenzie of that community.

Mr. Boeher, the brother of Mrs. Tom Renick of East Main Street, is associated with the Ross County Board of Health. Mrs. Boeher is associated with the State Department of Public Welfare in services to crippled children. They are residing at 171 West Main Street, Chillicothe.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dunlap, Sr., of near Williamsport were hosts at dinner Sunday, the affair honoring Mrs. Dunlap's mother, Mrs. George B. Bitzer, of near Chillicothe who observed her birthday anniversary recently.

Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Bitzer and Miss Florence Bitzer of near Chillicothe; Franz Stone, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. John H. Dunlap, Jr., and daughters, Shirley and Gail, and Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap, Sr.

Birthday Honored

Mrs. Mary Martin of Circleville, who was celebrating her eighty-fourth birthday anniversary, was honored at a family picnic Sunday at Rising Park, Lancaster.

Mrs. Martin resides with her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Pickens of Pinckney Street, who was one of the Circleville guests at the picnic. Others present from this community were Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hott, Rita Jean and Caroline Martin, great grandchildren of the honor guest; Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Lama and Mr. and Mrs. Basil Lama, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Friend and son, Bobby Joe, Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. George Black of near Circleville, Mrs. P. E. Lama and Mr. Black are sister and brother of Mrs. Martin and Bobby Joe Friend is her great-grandnephew.

Ashville Past Chiefs' Club

Mrs. Edwin Runkle entertained the members of the Ashville Past Chiefs' Club recently in her home in that community. Those enjoying the affair included Mrs. Leroy McDonald, Mrs. Walter Steele, Mrs. Charles Trone, Mrs. Scott Sothorn, Mrs. Hattie Rife, Mrs. George Messick, Mrs. Howard Hedges, Mrs. Amy Stoker, Mrs. Clyde Brinker, Mrs. Isaac Millar, Mrs. Frank Wharton, Mrs. Stanley Beckett, Mrs. Frank Hudson, Mrs. Ben Morrison, Mrs. Lloyd Kraft, Mrs. Roger Hedges and children, Donald and Nancy, Mrs. George Kuhn, Mrs. Henry Snyder, Mrs. Melvin Eisaman and Mrs. R. G. Peters.

Interesting contests were arranged for the entertainment of the guests, prizes going to Mrs. Eisaman, Mrs. Stocker, Mrs. Sothorn, Mrs. Kuhn, Mrs. Millar and Mrs. Kraft.

The hostess, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Charles DeVoss of Mt. Sterling and Mrs. Everett Peters of Lockbourne, served lunch at 4 p. m.

Mrs. Frank Hudson will entertain the club at the July session.

Gildersleeve-Doner

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Doner of near Adelphi, Ross County announce the marriage of their daughter, Iona Mae, to Mr. Eugene Gildersleeve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gildersleeve of Salt Creek Township. The marriage service was read in the parsonage of the Stoutsville Evangelical Church at 10:45 a. m. Saturday by the Rev. Harold Dutt. During the ceremony Mrs. Dutt softly played "Leibstrum" at the piano.

Mr. R. E. Pittman of Columbus, an uncle of the bride, was present for the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Doner entertained the members of the immediate families and several close friends at a reception in their home following the wedding.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Gildersleeve will reside with the bridegroom's parents following their wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinley Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKinley of near Commercial Point were hosts at dinner Sunday, the affair being arranged by Mrs. McKinley in honor of her husband's birthday.

Lovely garden flowers and tall candles in silver holders were used in decorating the table where the dinner was served, a large birthday cake being an interesting feature.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. William Schleich and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKinley and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith and sons of the Williamsport community; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Carpenter and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller and family of Darbyville; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Liston and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reid and daughter, Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hill, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. James Rankin, Grove City, William Beavers and Robert McKinley of Commercial Point.

HEROES AND THE GOATS

HEROES—Al Smith, a National League refugee, who yesterday won his ninth victory against one loss for the Cleveland Indians this year; Roy Cullenbine, St. Louis Browns outfielder, whose homer with the sacks filled enabled the Browns to gain a split with the Tigers in a doubleheader.

GOATS—Hal Trosky, Cleveland first baseman, who dropped an easy pop fly for an error as the White Sox triumphed in the second game of a twin-drill; Larry French, Chicago pitcher, who was knocked out of the box in the first game and then lost the second game with the Cincinnati Reds in a relief chore.

ODDS FOR TONY IN HIS CONTEST WITH MAX BAER

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, July 1—On the eve of another of his semi-annual comebacks, Max Baer today was a staunch 9 to 5 under-dog for his 15-round engagement with Two-Ton Tarzan Galento tomorrow night, as the two sterling contenders for the chance to be knocked out again by Joe Louis wound-up their alleged training. Baer, in fact, was among the very few who would audibly pick Baer to win this one or even go the limit. It is a strange state of affairs, all things considered. They are within a few months of each other's age, according to the records, both have lived carefree lives paying little heed to the copy book rules on deportment for athletes, and both hit with tremendous authority. But in the appearance Baer should be able to whip a roomful of Galentos. The former heavyweight champion is down within a few pounds of his best fighting weight and still has a physique second to none ever hauled into a ring. However, everybody is convinced that his fortitude under fire will desert him, as usual, and that soon thereafter Galento, who has plenty of heart and wild abandon, will go on to the win. They finished their workouts yesterday with their usual chucking, Galento boxing and talking four rounds at his Summit, N. J., camp and Baer going two equally vociferous heats at Pompton Lakes, N. J. Baer looked better than he has at any time in the last couple of years and Galento looked even worse than he usually does, all of which may or may not be significant.

MAULER MEETS GRUNT ARTIST IN MIT BATTLE

ATLANTA, Ga., July 1—The long awaited, much discussed and entirely puzzling bout between Jack Dempsey and Clarence ("Cowboy") Luttrell, rough and tumble Texas wrestler, comes up for exhibition tonight in Atlanta's Southern Association baseball park.

If the prophets of profit are correct, some 20,000 persons will pay in the neighborhood of $30,000 to see the affair.

To date no one has properly explained how the bout happened to be arranged, how the principals were influenced to engage in it, or why it is being held. But whatever the reason for the feature, it undeniably holds interesting possibilities. The scheduled distance is ten rounds, but Dempsey himself admits that distance is beyond him.

"I'll knock him out in two rounds," the old Manassa Mauler predicted, adding, "I'll have to; I can't go much beyond that." It will not be the first time Dempsey has traded punches with Luttrell. About two months ago Jack was refereeing a wrestling match in which the Cowboy got out of hand to the extent he let fly at Jack, who promptly hit back. Whether this was spontaneous or just part of a build-up to date has had no answer. The answer may come tonight.

The former heavyweight champ, for all his 45 years, appears in fine condition. He'll enter the ring about 25 pounds over his old fighting weight, but does not pack much excess flesh. His years as a successful restaurateur have not given him a pillow around the midriff.

Luttrell is 34, and well conditioned from his wrestling. The bout will be strictly a boxing affair, not a mixed wrestling-boxing bout. Six ounce gloves will be used.

MILLERS RETAIN SLIGHT MARGIN OVER KASEY FOE

COLUMBUS, July 1—Minneapolis remained a slim half-game ahead of Kansas City today in their two-team race for American Association honors as the two squads broke even in a pair of 11 to 3 tilts.

Before an overflow crowd of 10,700 which made ground rules necessary, Kansas City broke a five-game losing streak by taking the nightcap after the Millers captured the opener.

From 11-1/2 to 15-1/2 games behind the leaders, the other six teams continued their merry scramble for third, with Milwaukee still holding on to the spot, despite a loss and a draw with St. Paul. The Saints took the opener, 7 to 4, while the nightcap was called at the end of the seventh canto with the score knotted at 5-all because of the Sunday law.

Toledo was eased into the vacate basement when the Mudhens split with Louisville, taking the first tilt, 9 to 3, but dropping the second to the Colonels, 6 to 2.

ALL-STAR JOUST TOSS-UP; LOOPS CHOOSE ROSTERS

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, July 1—A glance at the rosters of the American and National League squads which will meet in the annual all-star game in St. Louis a week from tomorrow assures us that on the whole the managers of both circuits did a good job in making their selections.

In one or two instances sentiment rather than performance seems to have swayed the selectors, but this did not prevent them from picking the best men in each league.

Over a season's play we would have to string with the American Leaguers who pack more punch. But for one game, such as this, anything can happen and the squads should be rated on a 50-50 basis. It all depends on which squad will produce the better pitching for that particular day.

If forced to pick a winner we would take the American League with Bob Feller, Buck Newsom and Al Milnar or Dutch Leonard each working three innings against Bucky Walters, Larry French and Kirby Hoge.

We don't know what players Joe Cronin, manager of the A. L. forces, or Bill McKechnie, pilot of the N. L. squad, will start, but if they make their picks on current batting averages, their respective teams will look like this:

HEROES AND THE GOATS
HEROES—Al Smith, a National League refugee, who yesterday won his ninth victory against one loss for the Cleveland Indians this year; Roy Cullenbine, St. Louis Browns outfielder, whose homer with the sacks filled enabled the Browns to gain a split with the Tigers in a doubleheader.
GOATS—Hal Trosky, Cleveland first baseman, who dropped an easy pop fly for an error as the White Sox triumphed in the second game of a twin-drill; Larry French, Chicago pitcher, who was knocked out of the box in the first game and then lost the second game with the Cincinnati Reds in a relief chore.

ODDS FOR TONY IN HIS CONTEST WITH MAX BAER

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, July 1—On the eve of another of his semi-annual comebacks, Max Baer today was a staunch 9 to 5 under-dog for his 15-round engagement with Two-Ton Tarzan Galento tomorrow night, as the two sterling contenders for the chance to be knocked out again by Joe Louis wound-up their alleged training. Baer, in fact, was among the very few who would audibly pick Baer to win this one or even go the limit. It is a strange state of affairs, all things considered. They are within a few months of each other's age, according to the records, both have lived care-free lives paying little heed to the copy book rules on deportment for athletes, and both hit with tremendous authority. But in the appearance Baer should be able to whip a roomful of Galentos. The former heavyweight champion is down within a few pounds of his best fighting weight and still has a physique second to none ever hauled into a ring.

However, everybody is convinced that his fortitude under fire will desert him, as usual, and that soon thereafter Galento, who has plenty of heart and wild abandon, will go on to the win. They finished their workouts yesterday with their usual clowning, Galento boxing and talking four rounds at his Summit, N. J., camp and Baer going two equally vociferous heats at Pompton Lakes, N. J. Baer looked better than he has at any time in the last couple of years and Galento looked even worse than he usually does, all of which may or may not be significant.

MAULER MEETS GRUNT ARTIST IN MIT BATTLE

ATLANTA, Ga., July 1 — The long awaited, much discussed and entirely puzzling bout between Jack Dempsey and Clarence ("Cowboy") Luttrell, rough and tumble Texas wrestler, comes up for exhibition tonight in Atlanta's Southern Association baseball park.

If the prophets of profit are correct, some 20,000 persons will pay in the neighborhood of $30,000 to see the affair. To date no one has properly explained how the bout happened to be arranged, how the principals were influenced to engage in it, or why it is being held. But whatever the reason for the feature, it undeniably holds interesting possibilities. The scheduled distance is ten rounds, but Dempsey himself admits that distance is beyond him.

"I'll knock him out in two rounds," the old Manassa Mauler predicted, adding, "I'll have to; I can't go much beyond that." It will not be the first time Dempsey has traded punches with Luttrell. About two months ago Jack was refereeing a wrestling match in which the Cowboy got out of hand to the extent he let fly at Jack, who promptly hit back. Whether this was spontaneous or just part of a build-up to date has had no answer. The answer may come tonight.

The former heavyweight champ, for all his 45 years, appears in fine condition. He'll enter the ring about 25 pounds over his old fighting weight, but does not pack much excess flesh. His years as a successful restaurateur have not given him a pillow around the midriff. Luttrell is 34, and well conditioned from his wrestling. The bout will be strictly a boxing affair, not a mixed wrestling-boxing bout. Six ounce gloves will be used.

These averages show the American Leaguers leading everywhere except at third base and behind the plate.

However, the managers may use none of these or may use them for only part of the game. If Cronin choose to use others he has available Ruffing, Bridges and Pearson for pitchers; Dickey and Hemsley for catchers; McQuinn, Gordon, Boudreau and Rolfe for infielders; and Joe DiMaggio, Keller, Cramer and Johnson for outfielders. McKechnie's additional forces include Mulcahy, Derringer, Hubbell, and Wyatt, pitchers; Lombardi and Phelps, catchers; Mize, Jurgens, Lavagetto, Coscarart and Durocher, infielders; and Leiber, Ott and Terry Moore, outfielders. It is highly probable that both managers will use as many players as possible in which case the game will be more than ever a 50-50 proposition.

To date, the American League has won five of these all-star games and the National two and it is no secret that the National League is very eager to annex this one.

BABE WINS OPEN

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 1 — Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the former "all around" star of women's athletics, today held her first major golf title—the Women's Western Open championship. Mrs. Zaharias, who can drive a ball greater distances than most men, succeeded to the crown won last year by Helen Dettweiler of Washington, D. C., by defeating Mrs. Russell Mann of Milwaukee, 5 and 4, in yesterday's 36-hole final match.

From 11-1/2 to 15-1/2 games behind the leaders, the other six teams continued their merry scramble for third, with Milwaukee still holding on to the spot, despite a loss and a draw with St. Paul. The Saints took the opener, 7 to 4, while the nightcap was called at the end of the seventh canto with the score knotted at 5-5 because of the Sunday law. Toledo was eased into the vacate basement when the Mudhens split with Louisville, taking the first tilt, 9 to 3, but dropping the second to the Colonels, 6 to 2.

ALL-STAR JOUST TOSS-UP; LOOPS CHOOSE ROSTERS

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, July 1—A glance at the rosters of the American and National League squads which will meet in the annual all-star game in St. Louis a week from tomorrow assures us that on the whole the managers of both circuits did a good job in making their selections.

In one or two instances sentiment rather than performance seems to have swayed the selectors, but this did not prevent them from picking the best men in each league.

Over a season's play we would have to string with the American Leaguers who pack more punch. But for one game, such as this, anything can happen and the squads should be rated on a 50-50 basis. It all depends on which squad will produce the better pitching for that particular day. If forced to pick a winner we would take the American League with Bob Feller, Buck Newsum and Al Milnar or Dutch Leonard each working three innings against Bucky Walters, Larry French and Kirby Higbe.

We don't know what players Joe Cronin, manager of the A. L. forces, or Bill McKechnie, pilot of the N. L. squad, will start, but if they make their picks on current batting averages, their respective teams will look like this:

Two Youths Injured When Truck Runs Off Highway

Vehicle Hauling Crites Co. Canned Goods Damaged At Wytheville, Virginia

STATE TOLL GOES HIGH

June's Last Weekend Results In Numerous Accidents Throughout Ohio

Two Circleville youths, traveling in a heavily-laden truck, were injured Sunday afternoon when their truck careened off a Virginia road as they attempted to make room for a passing automobile. Injured were Robert Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anderson, 661 East Mound Street, and Arthur Barr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Barr, 146 Town Street.

The extent of their injuries was not certain Monday although young Barr was reported to be still unconscious. The Anderson youth was believed not seriously hurt.

The youths' parents were called to Wytheville Sunday night and were making arrangements to return the boys to Circleville Monday. The return will depend on young Barr's condition.

Young Anderson and Barr were driving a truck of Crites Milling Co. canned goods to Greensboro, N. C. Crites Co. officials said Monday that they were not certain of the extent of damage to the truck and its load.

By International News Service
At least fifteen Ohio persons met violent deaths during the last weekend of June, a survey disclosed today.

Automobile accidents took the heaviest toll with at least six more names being added to June's staggering list, while four persons drowned. One man was smothered to death when a ditch caved in and firecrackers indirectly caused the death of a Rocky Ridge youth.

Two Springfield men were killed and four others were injured when a train struck their auto at a crossing in Urbana. The victims were Commander Hall and Eugene Scott.

Donald S. Van Atta, 21, of Columbus, died in a Delaware hospital of burns suffered Thursday when a tractor he was refueling caught fire.

Injuries suffered in an auto crash Thursday proved fatal to Mrs. Martha E. Bergmann, 51, of Columbus, who died in a Springfield hospital.

A swim in the Little Miami River near Cincinnati resulted in the drowning of John M. Diskin, 25-year-old Cincinnati accountant.

Three members of an Akron family were drowned in a speedboat accident in the east reservoir of Portage Lakes, and three others were rescued when the boat capsized.

The victims were Loren W.

Ward, 34, operator of a trucking concern, his wife, Ada, 31, and their son, Robert, 6.

George Burkhardt of Long Lake dived in after another son, Donald Ward, 12, and rescued him, while members of the Coventry Township fire department brought B. C. Hartline and his wife to shore.

Witnesses said the 1940 model boat, owned and operated by Hartline, apparently went out of control and overturned, throwing the occupants into the reservoir.

Raymond Watson, 31-year-old WPA worker, was killed at Conneaut when a ditch he was helping his father excavate caved in and smothered him.

Reid Main, 13, of Rocky River, was killed when he toppled over a 100-foot cliff into the Rocky River ravine while throwing fire crackers.

Melvin Ray Steffe, 4, was injured fatally at Galion when he ran into the path of an automobile driven by Mrs. Harold G. Garverick. The child became confused while crossing the street with a group of children.

John Secola, 50, committed suicide at Niles by hanging himself in a tree. He had been missing from his home for two days.

Mrs. Edna Preston, 51, of Wickliffe, O., was killed in an auto crash near Flat Rock, Mich.

TWO MORE LOSE BONDS

George Hill, West Main Street, and Mrs. Opal Fisher, South Pickaway Street, forfeited $50 bonds for promoting games of chance, police reported Monday. Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick made the arrests Saturday afternoon.

TINY RACCOON FOUND IN ROAD, TAKEN TO SAFETY

As David Dunlap, 137 West Franklin Street, was driving on Route 23 south of Circleville Saturday afternoon, he saw two little raccoons along the road, and fearing someone might run over them, picked them up and brought them to Circleville. Then not knowing what to do with them after he got them home, he turned them over to Sheriff Charles Radcliff, who liked them so well he decided to keep them.

Conservation Officer Clarence Francis, who promised to get a pen to keep them in, said they were about a month old and had probably strayed away from their mother.

Pea Season In Ashville Ends; Pack Satisfactory

By S. D. Fridley
Phone Ashville 79

The season pea pack has come to a close after an almost continuous day and night run since Thursday, June 13. Both in quantity and quality the pack was most satisfactory, thousands of cases making up the count, and all sold months ago we were told. Among those at this season's close were George Duvall, Ida Plummer and Lilly Seymour who, we are told, were a part of those employed at the beginning of the plant in 1900, forty years ago, to be exact, August 9, George Hook's diary says. Only corn was packed at that time.

Ashville—Mrs. Edward Dewey who has been confined to her bed for the last couple of weeks is now able to be up and about. Her two daughters, Mrs. Hazel Cloud and Mrs. Audrey Eisel, have been caring for her. Mrs. Ethel Haskins, son Jack, daughter Charlotte and Miss Bessie Mullendick, all of Whitehouse, Ohio, have returned home after a visit with Mrs. Haskins' mother, Mrs. Dewey.

Ashville—Mrs. George and Mrs. Jack Messick recently entertained at the latter's home at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. William Lake (Louise Stoker), a bride of June 4 who received many lovely gifts from the following invited guests: Mrs. Charles Stoppelton, New Holland; Mrs. Amy Stoker, Mrs. Prince Moore, Mrs. Clarence Rush, Mrs. Harry Topolosky, Mrs. Gertrude Johnson, Mrs. Elmer Malone, Mrs. Walter Kraft, Mrs. Edgar Stough, Columbus; Mrs. Ivan McCarthy, Mrs. Clara Creager, Mrs. Geraldine Cline, Miss Hazel Wells, Mrs. Philip Dailey, Miss Frances Grant, Mrs. William Cloud, Mrs. Susanne Dailey, Miss Fay Johnson, Master Charles Messick and the hostesses.

Ashville—The village council will be in regular session this evening.

Ashville—The current issue of Popular Science Monthly contained a fine picture of our Ed Schlegel busy at a lathe in his hobby workshop.

Ashville—Word has been received here of the serious illness of Samuel Hummel at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wright at Montour Falls, New York. Mr. Hummel is an Ashville and community native and is well known here. He is eighty-five years of age.

Ashville—30 IN C. M. T. C. CAMP CHILLICOTHE, July 1—Approximately 30 Ross County and Chillicothe young men left Monday for a month's training at the M. T. C. camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

MacMahon with Dick and Nancy are here from Newton Center, Mass., guests at the home of her parents, Seymour and Mrs. Miller. . . . Ott Younkin wife and son of Masontown, Pa., were recent guests at the home of their cousin Fred Younkin and family on West Main Street.
